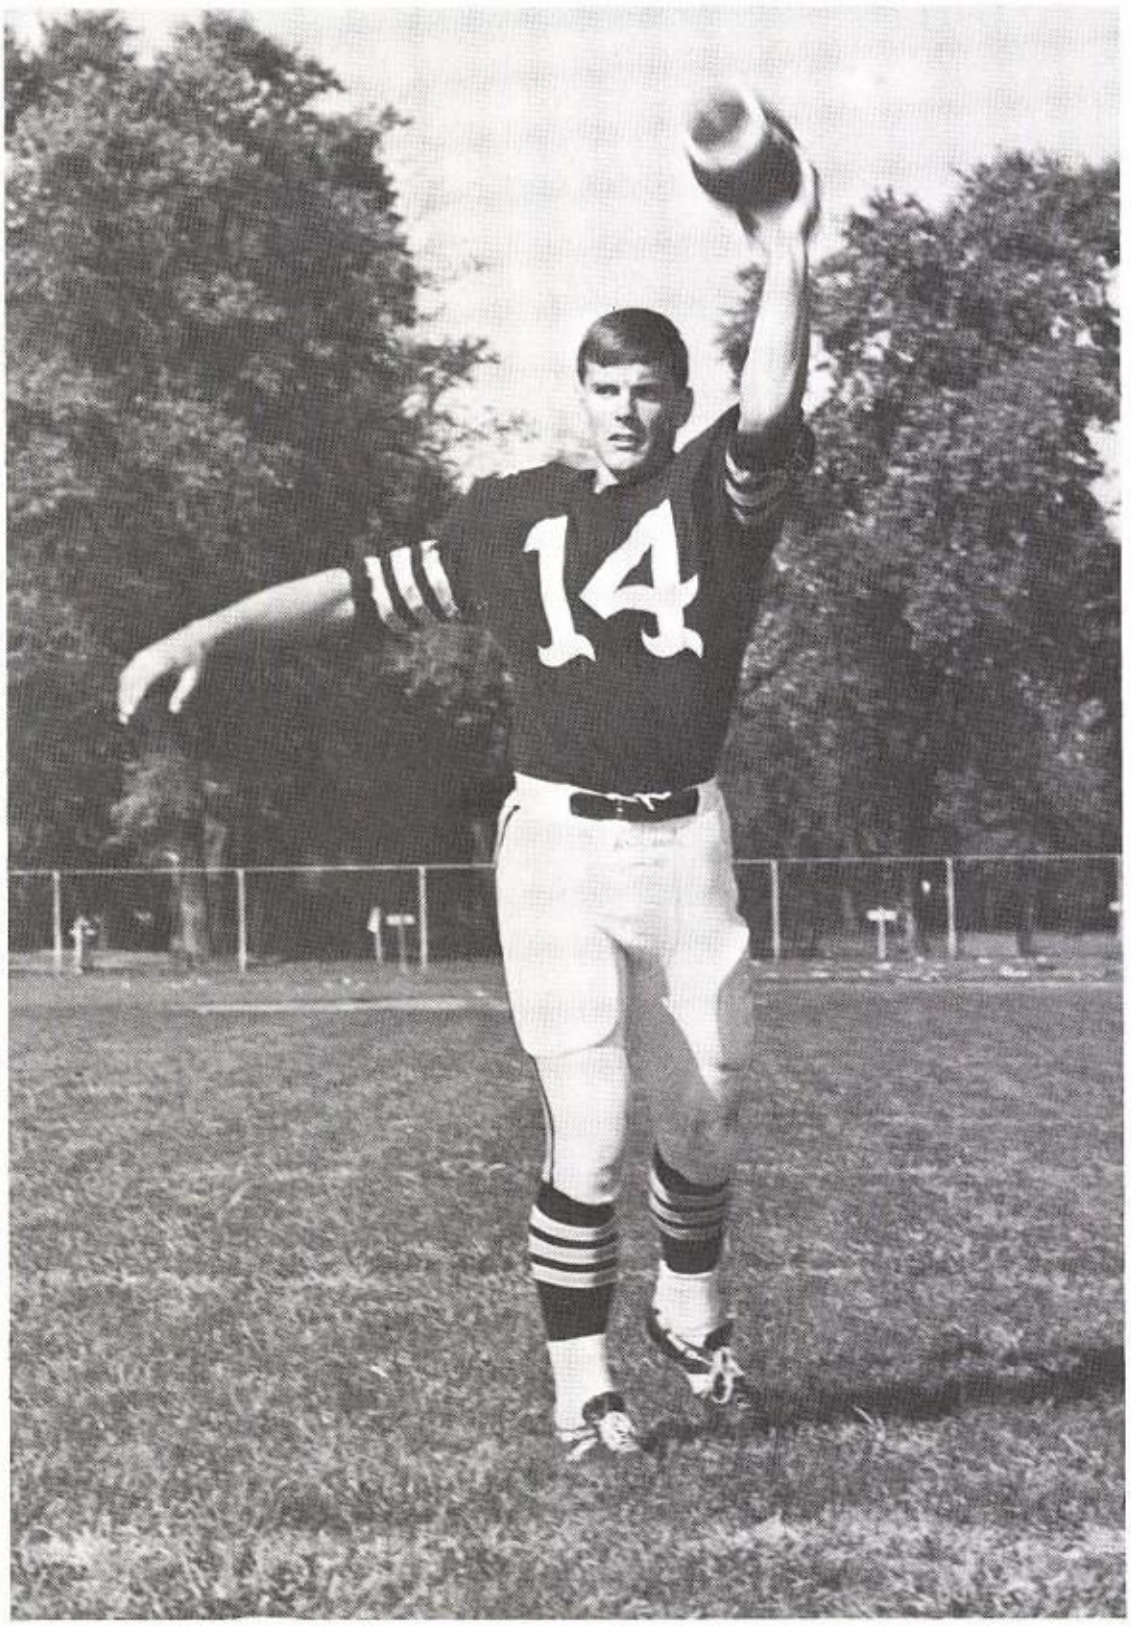
SHELBYVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

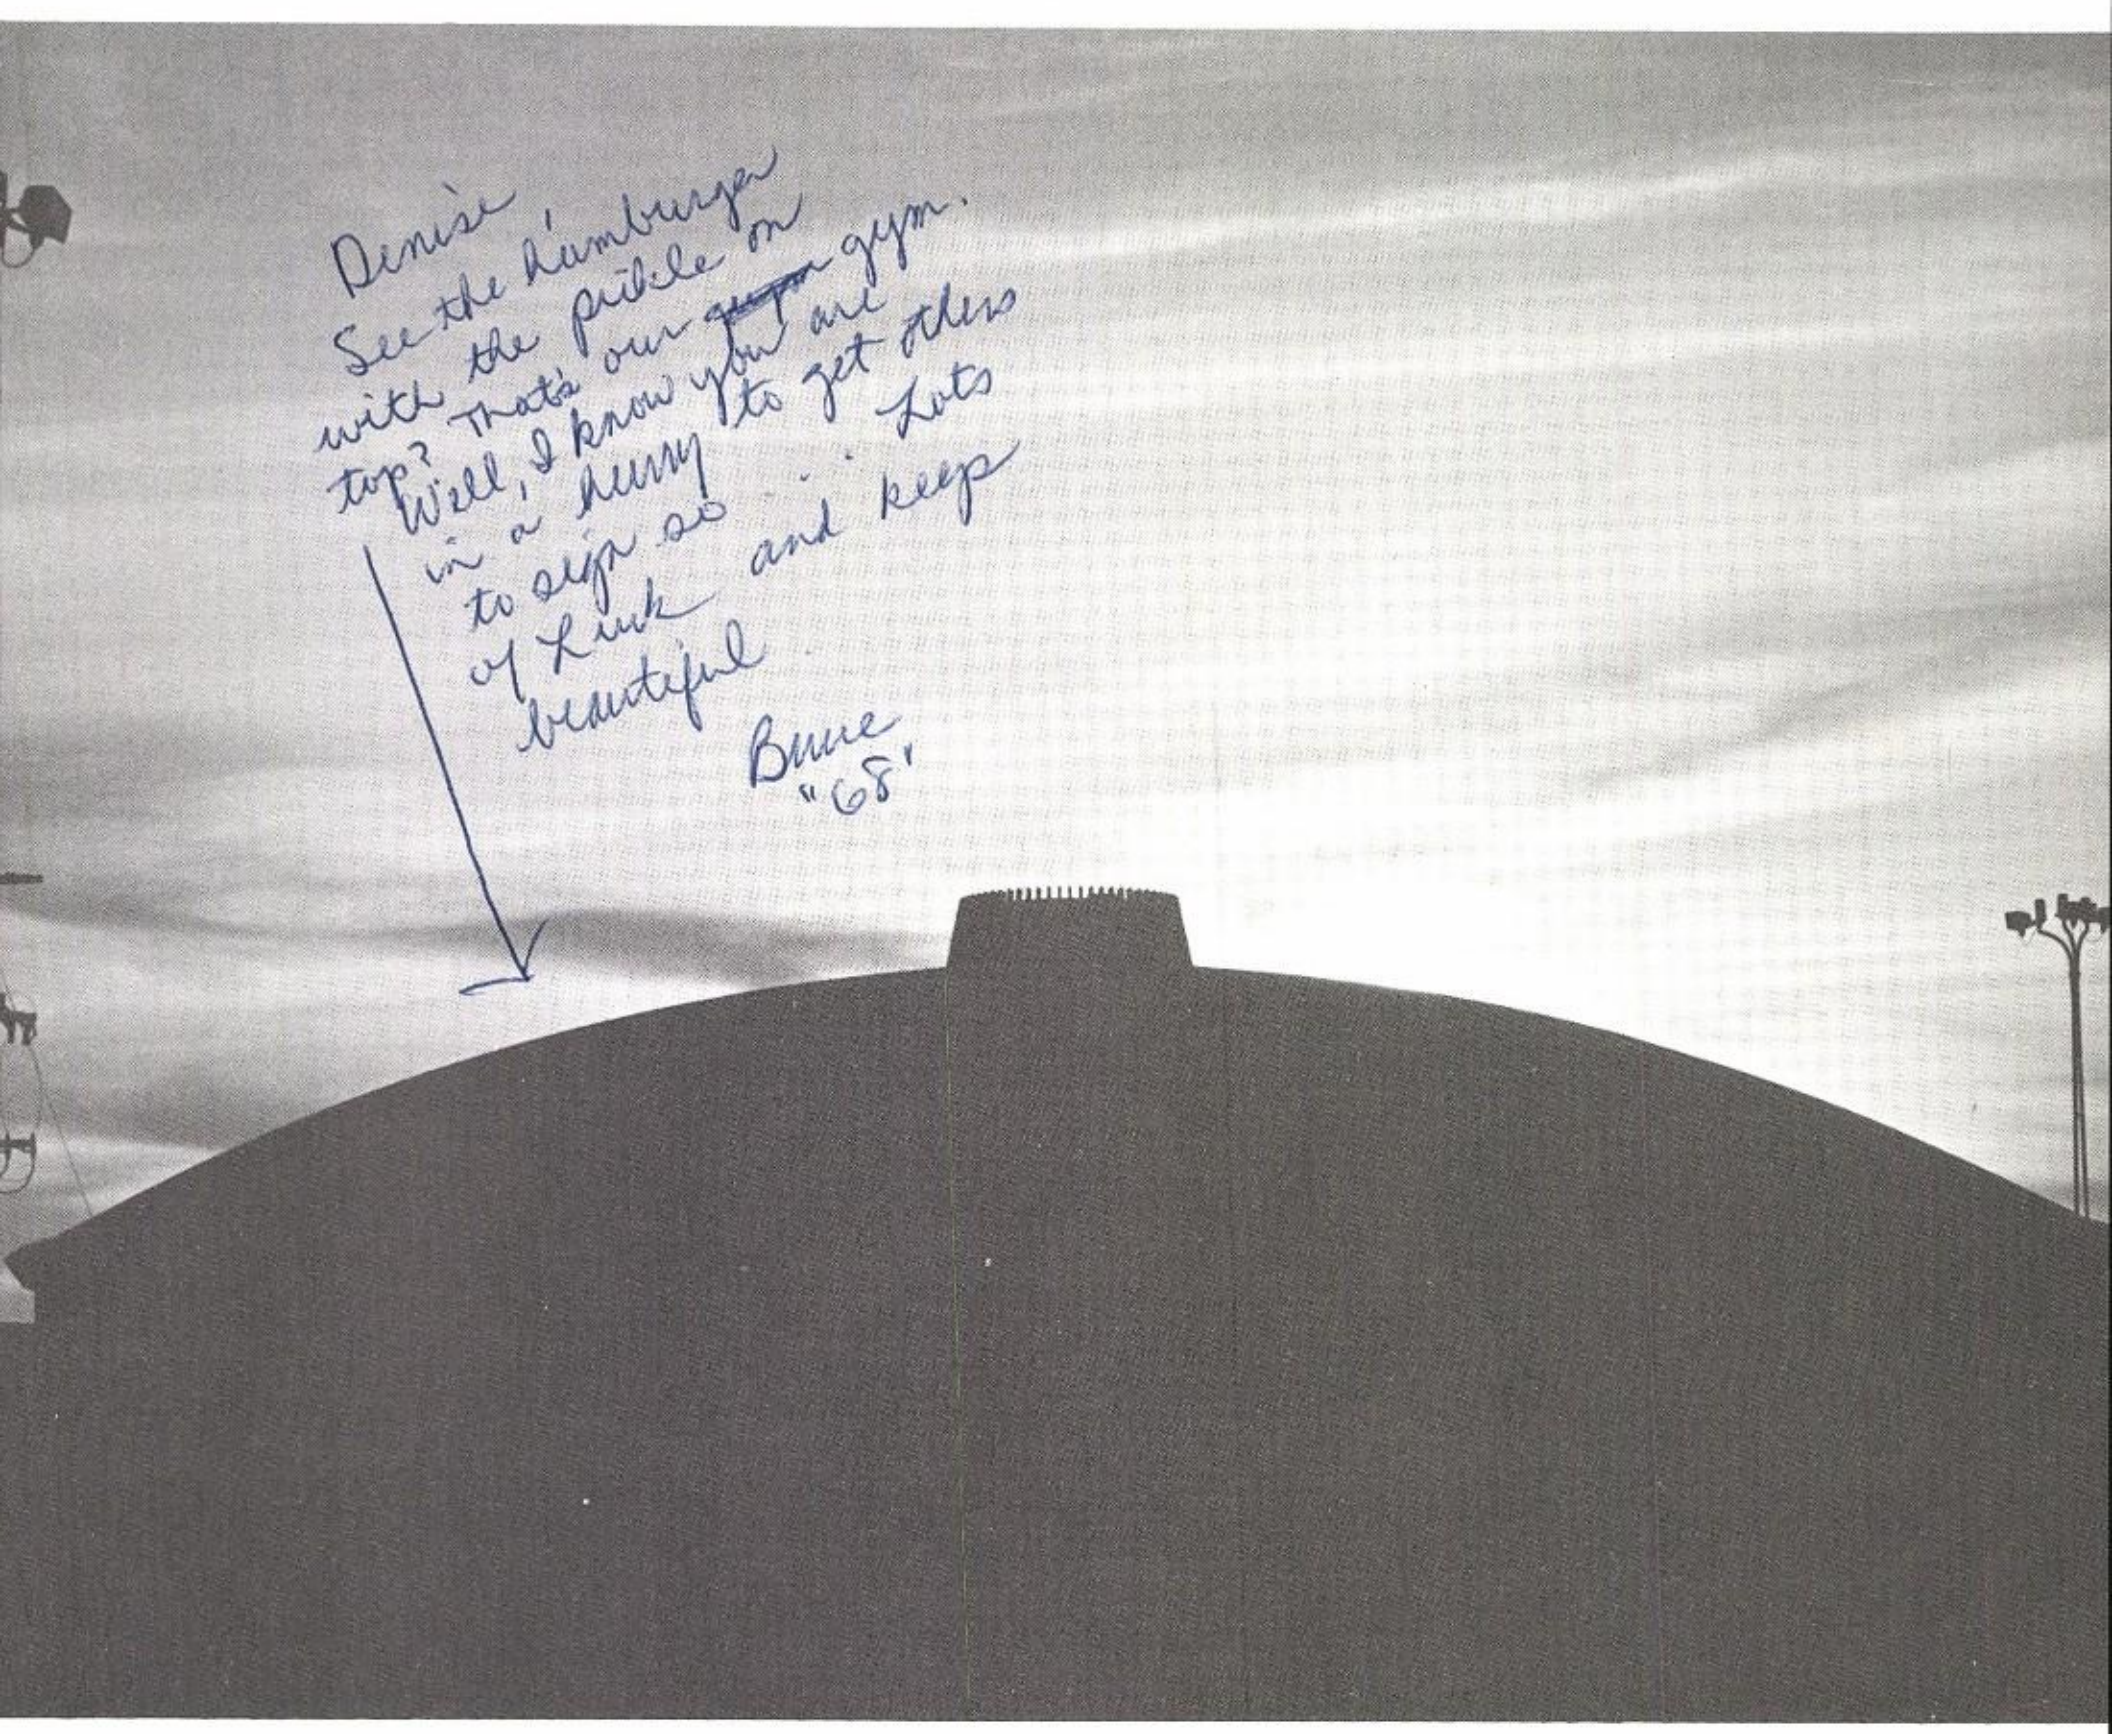
SHELBYVILLE, INDIANA VOL. 64

In memoriam



There seems to be little order in a world where death comes without explanation to a young man. There is cause to question those things taken for granted. If man has traveled in space, conquered the elements, discovered the secrets of his own heart, then why must a young man die? This is the question we have all been asking, but only God knows the answer.

Ron Winton was one of the finest young men at Shelby. His self-contained, quiet fortitude earned the admiration of the student body. Always striving for the best in what he did, Ron would not be satisfied with anything less. On the athletic field, in school, or about town, he was respected and highly regarded by all. Ron was a man of dignity, of strength, of faith, and a man of his own thoughts.



Bursting, bulging, exploding Shelby High

The morning sun is just clearing the roof of the gym, and soon it will be time for another school day. Into Shelbyville High School pour students from many backgrounds. Through exposure to the mysteries of parallels and plurals, clubs and classics, dances and drama, raw freshmen are molded into poised seniors. Students finally make it to their final year with senior cords and keys, pictures and announcements, and that all-important day—graduation.

Shelby students are alike, and yet they are different. They are curious combinations of civics tests and Sunshine initiations, test tubes and Herb Alpert. They chew gum and dream dreams. They are in a world of their own where there is plenty to do. The quick decisions, the spur-of-the-moment activities are all a part of these youthful years.

On the following pages the reader can look into the world of SHS students —those breathless moments just before the team scores the winning basket, the despair that a surprise quiz brings, or the suspense before a play entrance. Perhaps the most appropriate word for a Shelby student would be "explosive," explosive with a vitality, a youthful vigor that makes SHS a wonderful place.

Summer plans of SHS students include institutes and travels abroad

From Indiana University to Rome, SHS students were busy broadening their knowledge last summer. At I.U. several students attended institutes and workshops ranging from Latin to journalism and from music to Girls' State. David Dean, participating in the Honors Abroad Program, spent ten weeks in Europe with five weeks in Rome. Touring northern Europe for forty-five days, Doug Wood took part in the People-to-People Program. Each of these students brought back valuable information to be put to use at SHS.

Tie Weejuns, big watches, and turtle

Remember bobby socks and ballerina skirts? Probably not, but students at SHS in 1968 will remember such fads as tie Weejuns, net hose, and turtle neck sweaters. Look down any corridor and see girls in kilts and knee socks or boys in bright plaid pants. Those wide watch bands are the "thing" now and initial purses serve practical as well as decorative purposes. Collar pins and all types of belts can be seen on many SHS girls as they walk down the hall. It's a fact—students at SHS know what it takes to be "in"!

Homecoming celebrated by students as

During half-time of the last home football game, all eyes were trained on the sidelines as eight girls and their escorts walked toward the stands and anxiously awaited the moment when one of them would be crowned Queen of the annual homecoming festivities. Tom Schneider, Student Council President, stepped forward and crowned Christi Eads 1967 Homecoming Queen. The evening reached its happy conclusion as the Golden Bears triumphed over the Pirates of Greensburg.

The band's half time show was highlighted by its circus theme. As the band played "Elephant Walk," the drum majors came out dressed as ringmasters and the majorettes as clowns. In their final formation, the band took the shape of a flag, displayed red, white, and blue lights, and played "America the Beautiful."

the calendar of the new Breck Auditorium

This year for the first time SHS has had the opportunity to offer a number of special convocations. The new auditorium with its red cushioned seats and gold carpet is well suited to the programs that have been presented there. This year students have had a chance to see and hear race driver Johnny Boyd, jet pilot Colonel Joseph F. Cotton, a special Veterans' Day program, an athletic awards program, and a Christmas convocation presented by the Show Group.

Indianapolis "500" driver Johnny Boyd spoke on the importance of safe and courteous driving. He pointed out that safety was the most important product in racing, not speed. Air Force Colonel Joe Cotton talked on the hazards of being a test pilot. He stressed that danger was a jet pilot's business and every moment that the pilot was in the air could be his last. Bernard Sleeth presented a Veterans' Day program in which he showed the importance of pride and loyalty to one's country, especially in time of war. Many fall athletes were honored in the awards program along with former football coach J. M. McKeand. A special treat for SHS students was the Show Group's presentation of a program at Christmas time.

Traditional and unusual combine to make

In an atmosphere charged with excitement and suspense Lord Mayor David Longstreet crowned Saundra Pyle Queen of the 1967 May Festival.

Arch dancers formed a floral passageway to the throne as the Dance Band played the traditional "Country Gardens." The excitement reached its peak as each member of the court and her escort appeared, until Saundra Pyle, accompanied by Lord Mayor David Longstreet, mounted the dais and was crowned Queen of the May. After the crowning, the court and audience were royally entertained by "Tijuana Taxi" and "Born Free" performed by the Dance Band and Kay Dougherty. The Show Group and Dance Band combined on "Side By Side" and "Exactly Like You." The evening ended as the Queen and her court were escorted from the dais.

Hard work and determination bring many

Though many boys represented each of the SHS athletic teams this year, a select few received special awards or honors for their outstanding tasks. Bob Haas, a good long-distance man who always finished high in the standings, was voted most valuable man on the SHS cross country team by his fellow harriers, while Rich Brown, who excelled in the broad jump and 440-yard dash, was named the top track man.

Football awards were the most abundant. Fred Avant and Steve Zeller were co-captains of this year's squad and Avant, Wes Miller, Rich Brown, and Ron Winton were members of the all-conference team. Mike Platt received honorable mention. Larry Lewis was voted the most valuable lineman on the team by his teammates, while Brown and Avant tied for most valuable back. Avant and John Chesser were named to the second team all-state squad, while Miller was placed on the third squad. Avant was also the winner of the coveted J. M. McKeand Kiwanis Award, formerly known as the Kiwanis Award.

In basketball, Steve Drake received last year's Paul Cross Award, the most valued award given in that sport.

Planning to major in either biology or engineering, he will attend Purdue.

Above Right—Elected to the Homecoming Court for three years, Judy Christian also was a member of the Student Council, Booster Club, and Future Nurses. Judy plans to become an airline stewardess or a dental hygienist. Varsity football player John Chesser enjoys doing almost everything in his spare time. He enjoys swimming and golf and will go to Purdue.

Right—Margie Price, recognized for her calm personality, will attend I.U. to study advertising. She has been on the Courier Staff and a cheerleader for two years. Participating in baseball, football and basketball has taken up much of Dennis Danner's time during the last four years. Dennis enjoys reading, sports, and working on his car. He will enter the University of Kentucky in the fall.

She plans to attend Ball State and major in elementary education. When Tim Ash is not playing basketball, he is probably fishing. Tim has been a member of the varsity basketball team for three years and also participates in S-Club, N.A.S.S., and Hi-Y.

Mardi Gras sets the scene for '67 Prom

Scenes of Bourbon Street and other New Orleans sites lined the sides of the Paul Cross Gym and set the mood for the 1967 Junior-Senior Prom, "Mardi Gras," on May 12.

Members of the prom committees, under co-chairmen Ann Clay and Larry Lewis, spent many hours preparing decorations, favors, and food. Street signs, murals and streamers decorated every corner of the gym. Placed on each table were party poppers, face masks, noise makers, and confetti.

During the evening Christi Eads, escorted by Eric Dickmann, was crowned Prom Queen and led the couples in the Grand March through the streets of New Orleans.

Juniors work furiously to finish '68 Prom

Juniors selected three classmates to be candidates for Queen of the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom. The court consisted of Louise Brandenburger, escorted by Tom Brenton; Jerrel DeWitt, escorted by Chris Williams; and Patty Owens, escorted by Bruce Campbell.

Money to finance this year's prom was raised by candy sales. Juniors sold various kinds of candy in the gymnasium lobby at noon to meet the cost of the 1968 Prom.

Various committees—the food committee, the decorations committee, the band committee, and others—worked zealously and tried hard to make this prom the best ever.

On the basis of their high accumulative averages Jerry Moore and Debbie Baker became the 1968 Lord Mayor and Vestavia Award winner respectively. Jerry plans to study electrical engineering or medical research at Purdue University. He is active in Forum Leadership, Squib staff, Science Club, and concessions. Debbie is editor-in-chief of the 1968 Squib and enjoys Spanish and history courses. Debbie plans to attend Indiana University next year with the intention of teaching American history.

Each year the faculty has the task of selecting from the top twenty-five percent of the senior class the members of the National Honor Society. These seniors represent approximately fifteen percent of their class and stand as a prime example of talent, motivation, and achievement. This year's forty-one members were initiated at a banquet given in their honor by the alumni of Shelbyville High School.

The D.A.R. Good Citizen Award winner is chosen on the basis of scholastic aptitude and personality. This year's recipient was Mandy Miller. She was chosen by the faculty and senior class and placed second in the county.

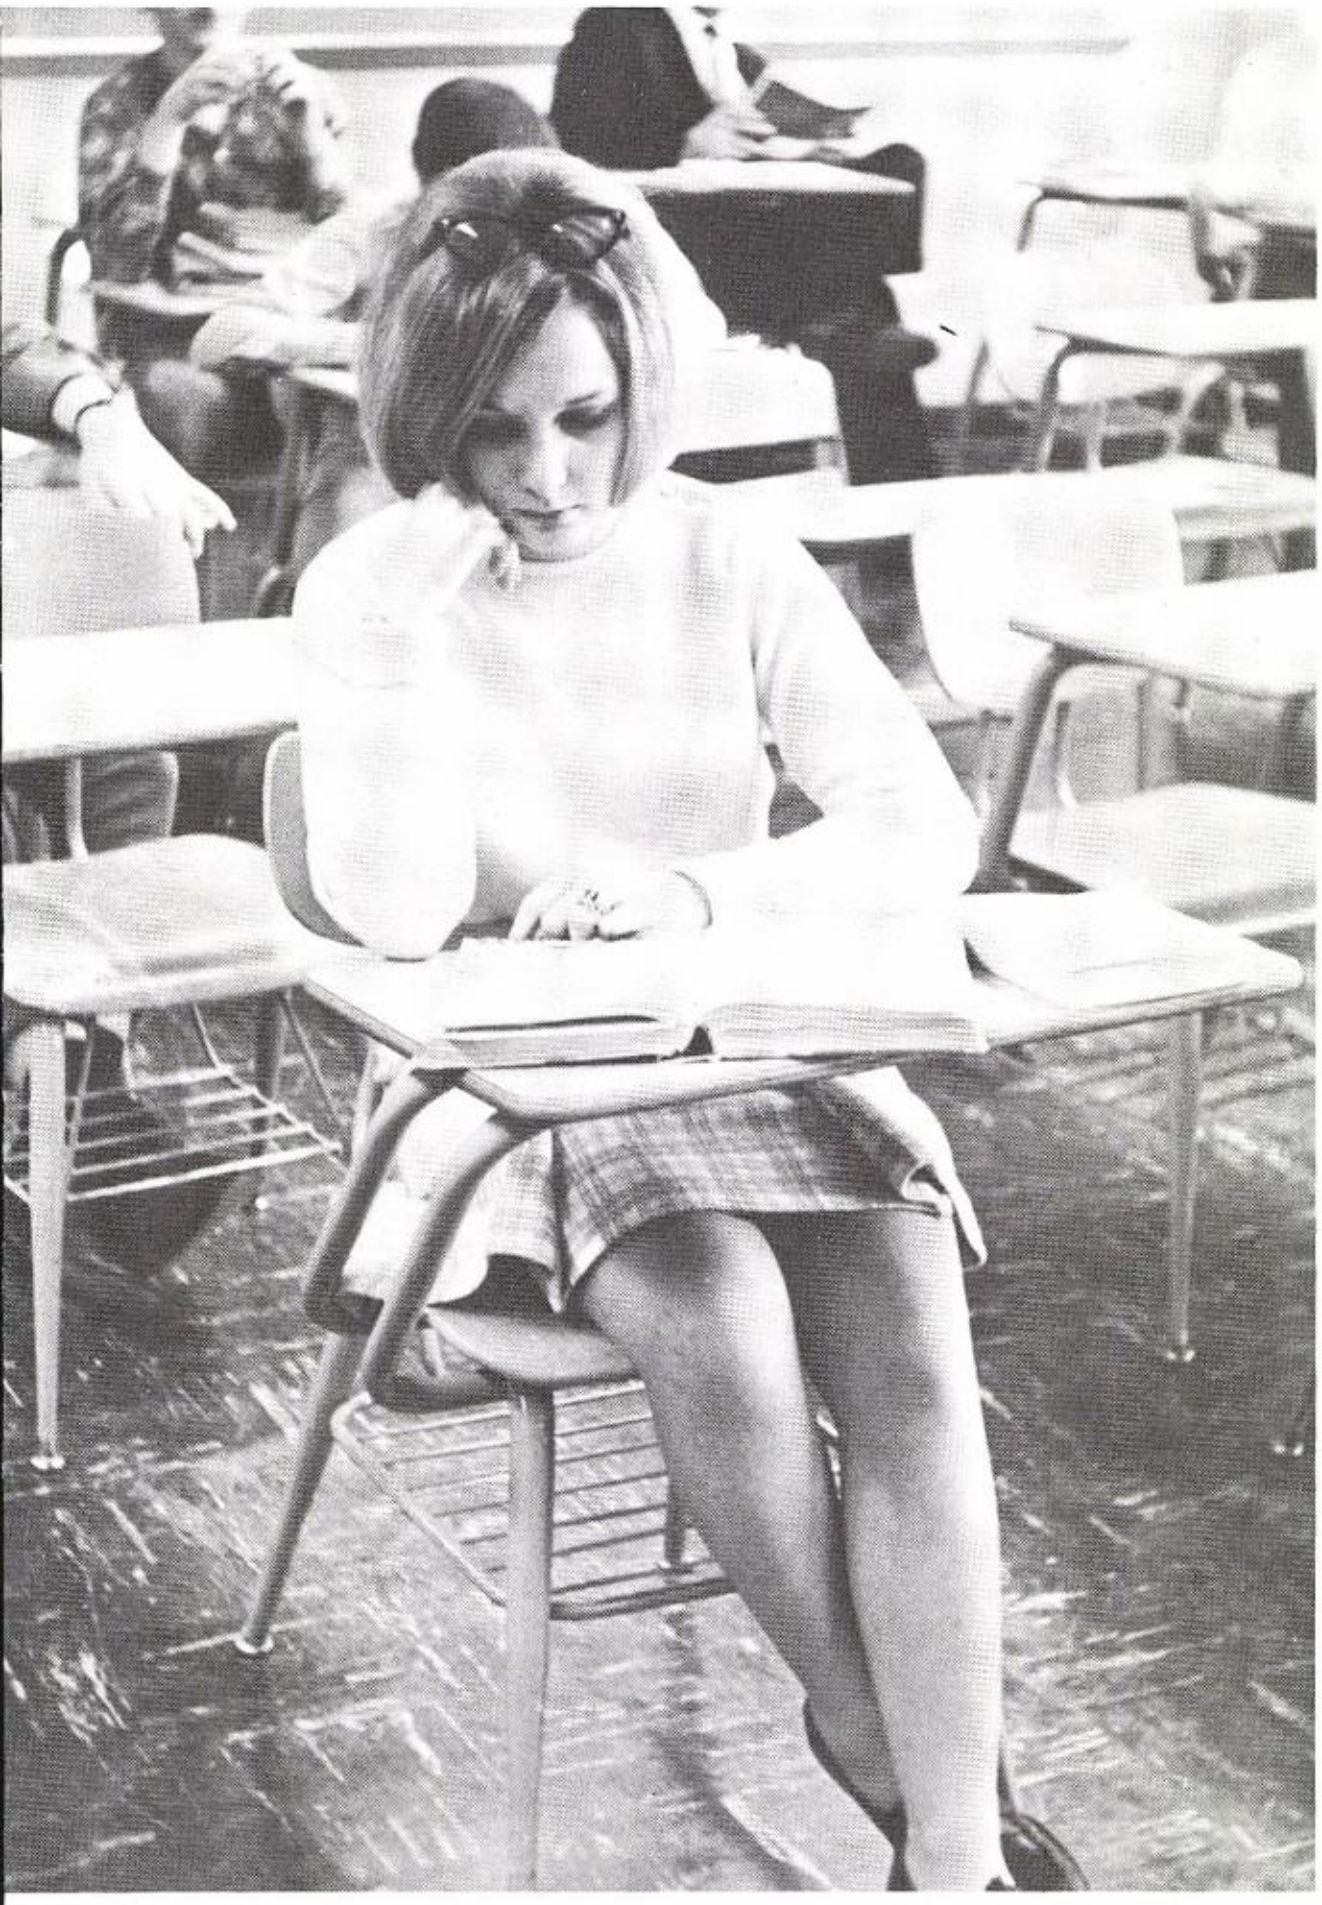
turn students into responsible young adults



Shelby High is a bulging center of youth and vitality where approximately twelve hundred students work, play, laugh, and dream. It is a magnificent conglomeration of concessions, sports, music, drama, science reports, and hunger pains before lunch. And it is an institution of learning, where pupils seek to understand the world in which they live.

Many students will be back next year to ponder their questions, explore their problems, and establish new friendships. Seniors will go on to increased responsibilities and greater challenges. Whatever the future holds for an SHS graduate, he has been trained to meet all difficulties on a baseball diamond, in a yearbook office, or in the outside world.

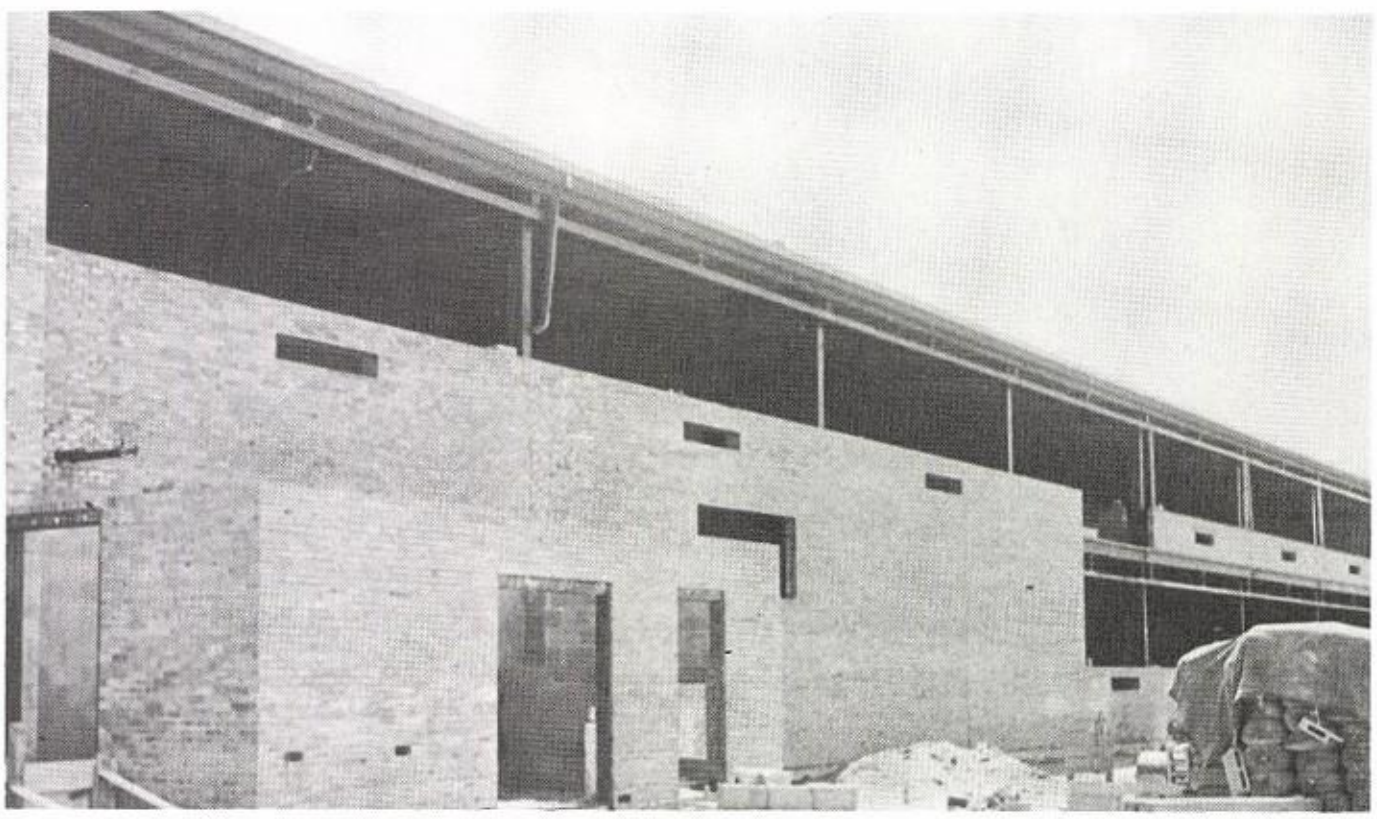
History

Less than 150 years ago the school system of Shelbyville was housed in a one-room log cabin.

Seniors of 1968 are proud to be the first class graduated from the "new" Shelbyville High School. This is not the first time citizens of Shelbyville have built a "new" school for their children. In the years 1894 and 1912 "new" high schools welcomed Shelbyville students. Seniors from each of these schools were also proud graduates. They took their places in a community that continued to plan for the future.

Each of these "new" schools enriched its curriculum and improved its facilities. Each contributed toward the development of the "new" Shelbyville High School of 1968.

Because knowledge of yesterday increases enjoyment of today, the Squib Staff has prepared these pages of school history.



Shelby progresses from one room to a

By John Kemper

Students entering Shelby High in 1968 join a proud procession one hundred years in length. It was 1868 when high school instruction first became a part of Shelbyville's schools. That high school occupied one room of the seminary that stood at the present site of Major School. Three terms of six months each were required to complete the course. The curriculum included rhetoric, physiology, trigonometry, geology, and Latin.

The program for the first Shelbyville High School commencement listed six graduates. Receiving a diploma in the class of '72 was Charles Major, author of When Knighthood was in Flower, Bears of Blue River, and Dorothy Vernon of Hadden Hall.

In 1876 the young high school added zoology, drawing, philosophy, astronomy, and bookkeeping. Forty pupils enrolled that fall, and one teacher devoted his entire time to the high school. He was assisted by the grade school teachers. The term became eight months long and a pupil could complete every subject offered in three years.

Today that familiar building at the corner of Broadway and Tompkins houses the school administration offices. In 1894 it was the "new" high school, built at a cost of $16,500. Three faculty members taught one hundred pupils for the four years.

The class of 1909 boasted forty-three graduates. In this group was John W. Hill who pioneered in public relations and founded Hill And Knowlton, the world's largest public relations firm.

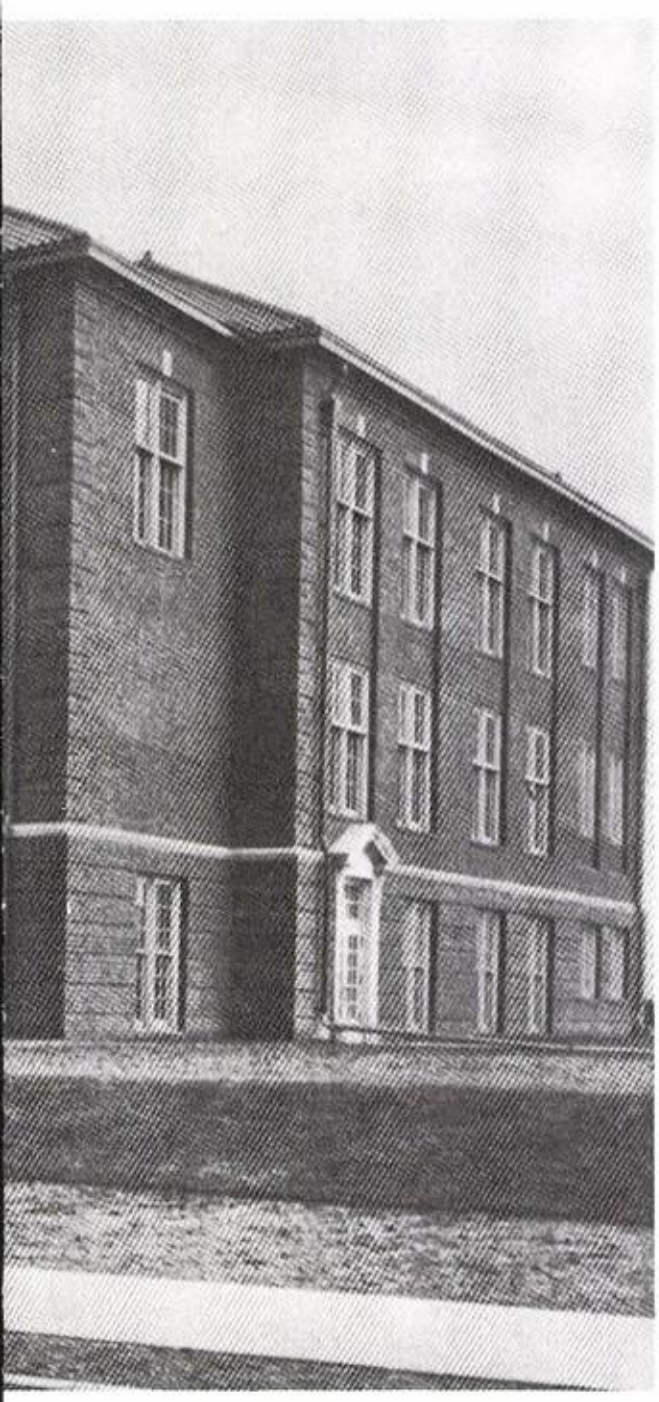
make move to present JHS necessary



On January 11, 1911, an impressive procession marched south on Tompkins from the high school. The entire student body attended the laying of the cornerstone for a new high school, begun the preceding fall. The citizenry was impressed by modern features such as "Manual Training and Domestic Science" rooms, forced-air heating, and a gymnasium with locker rooms. When this "new" high school opened in 1912, its assembly was the talk of the town. It was the largest room that most of the townspeople had ever seen.

Athletics was always part of high school life, but for many years it was managed by students and had no financial support. During the 1908-09 term SHS started on the road toward recognition and sponsorship of athletics. In 1909, a new faculty member, Mayo D. Foland, coached the boys' basketball team. Girls played basketball too, and the daring costumes of the young ladies aroused considerable comment. The move to the school on Second Street provided a gymnasium for the team, and the sport became popular with students and townspeople. Accommodations were needed for spectators and the Paul Cross Gym was added to school facilities. This structure was named for Paul Cross, the first Shelbyville High School student to be killed in WWI, and later a basketball award by the same name was established. In 1927 a football field was purchased by the school and J. M. McKeand, newly graduated from Hanover College, came as a teacher and football coach. H. T. McCullough became athletic director and basketball coach. The athletes now became known as "Mackmen."

William F. Loper came as principal in 1927. At this time, the assembly no longer seemed so spacious. When convocations were called, pupils sat two to a seat and stood along the walls. One measure of the respect Mr. Loper commanded from his students was the attentive silence they gave him when he stood before this overcrowded room.

The depression of the '30's brought special problems to Mr. Loper and his students. Graduates of those years remember that "He encouraged, he prodded, he gave practical advice, and he sometimes bent rules. He gave hope to hard-pressed parents, and to students he was always cheerful." In 1931 SHS graduated one-hundred seniors—the largest class to that date.

Left—William F. Loper, a former superintendent, made this statement in the 1931 Squib: "My hope for our high school is that it may continue to be a school that does its work in such a way as to rank with the best, ever looking with open mind for the new, with the idea of approaching what is true; and that it may never forget that education consists not primarily of acquiring knowledge, but of the development of character, of the ability to think clearly, and of the ability to act wisely."

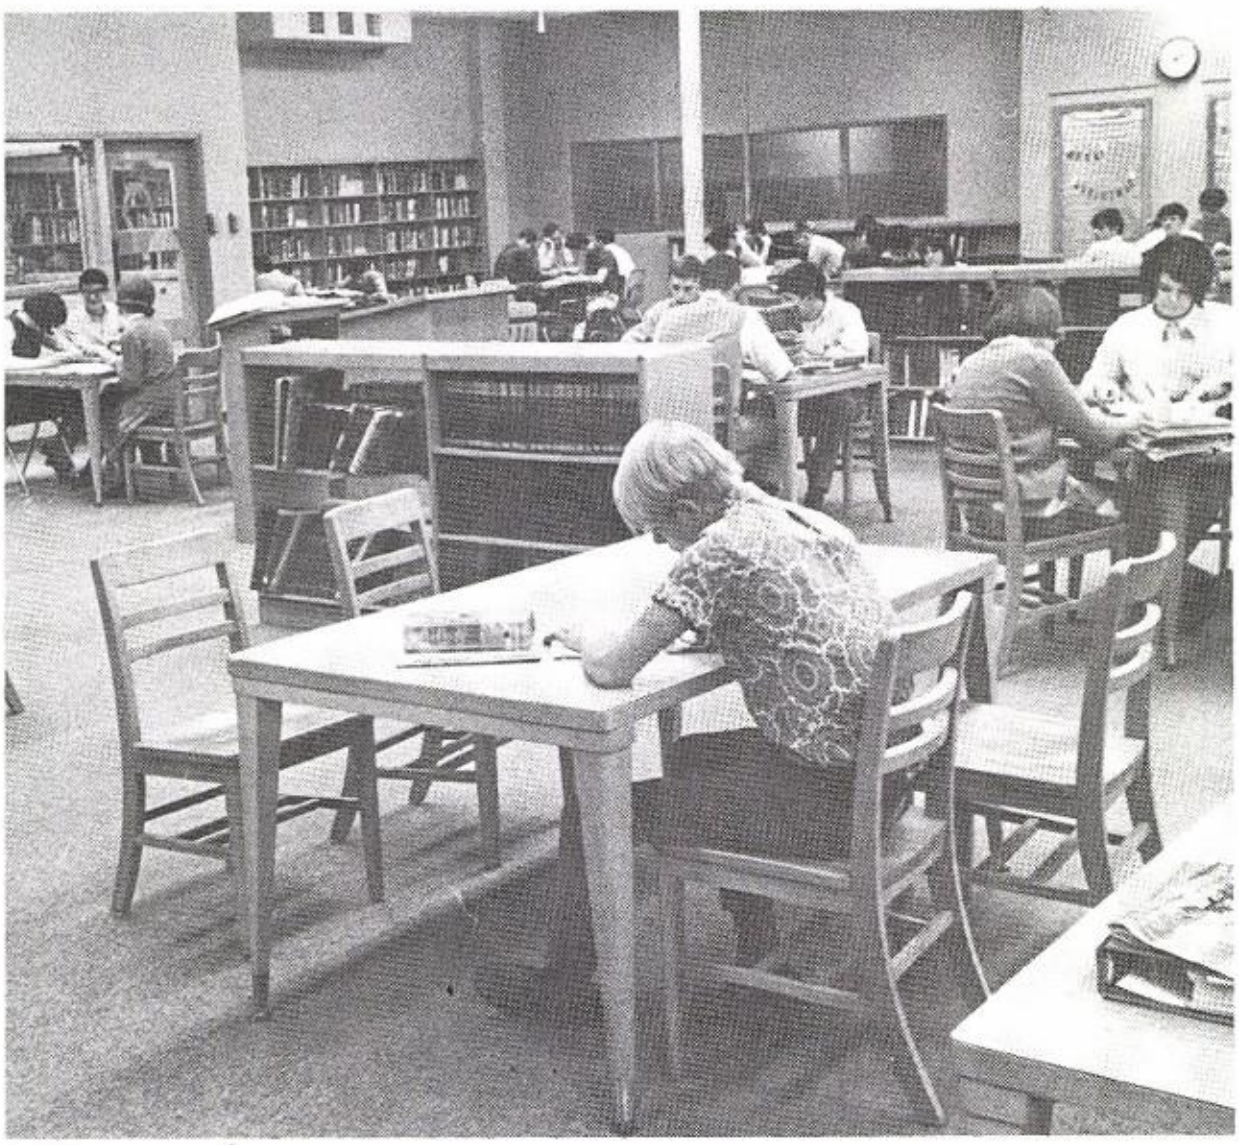
announces plans to build a high school



When Mr. Loper became Superintendent of Schools, a popular history teacher left his classroom and occupied the principal's office. J. W. O. Breck guided the school through the war years. Mr. Breck then followed Mr. Loper into the superintendent's office and began planning for a new high school.

In 1954 a study of community growth was started. The board of school trustees decided that a building to meet present and future needs should be planned in its entirety, being constructed in units over a period of years. This plan would spread costs over a longer period and reduce the total burden on the taxpayers of the community. Forty-three acres on the corner of the Columbus Pike and McKay Road were purchased from Burton Swain in December, 1956. The architects were Lennox, Matthews, Simmons, and Ford of Indianapolis.

become familiar to each student at SHS

Construction began in August of 1957. The first unit of the new high school contained classrooms, science laboratories, office, library, cafeteria, bookstore, and clinic. The total cost of this unit was $1,196,220.45, including land, furniture, and all legal fees. The first classes entered on September 3, 1959.

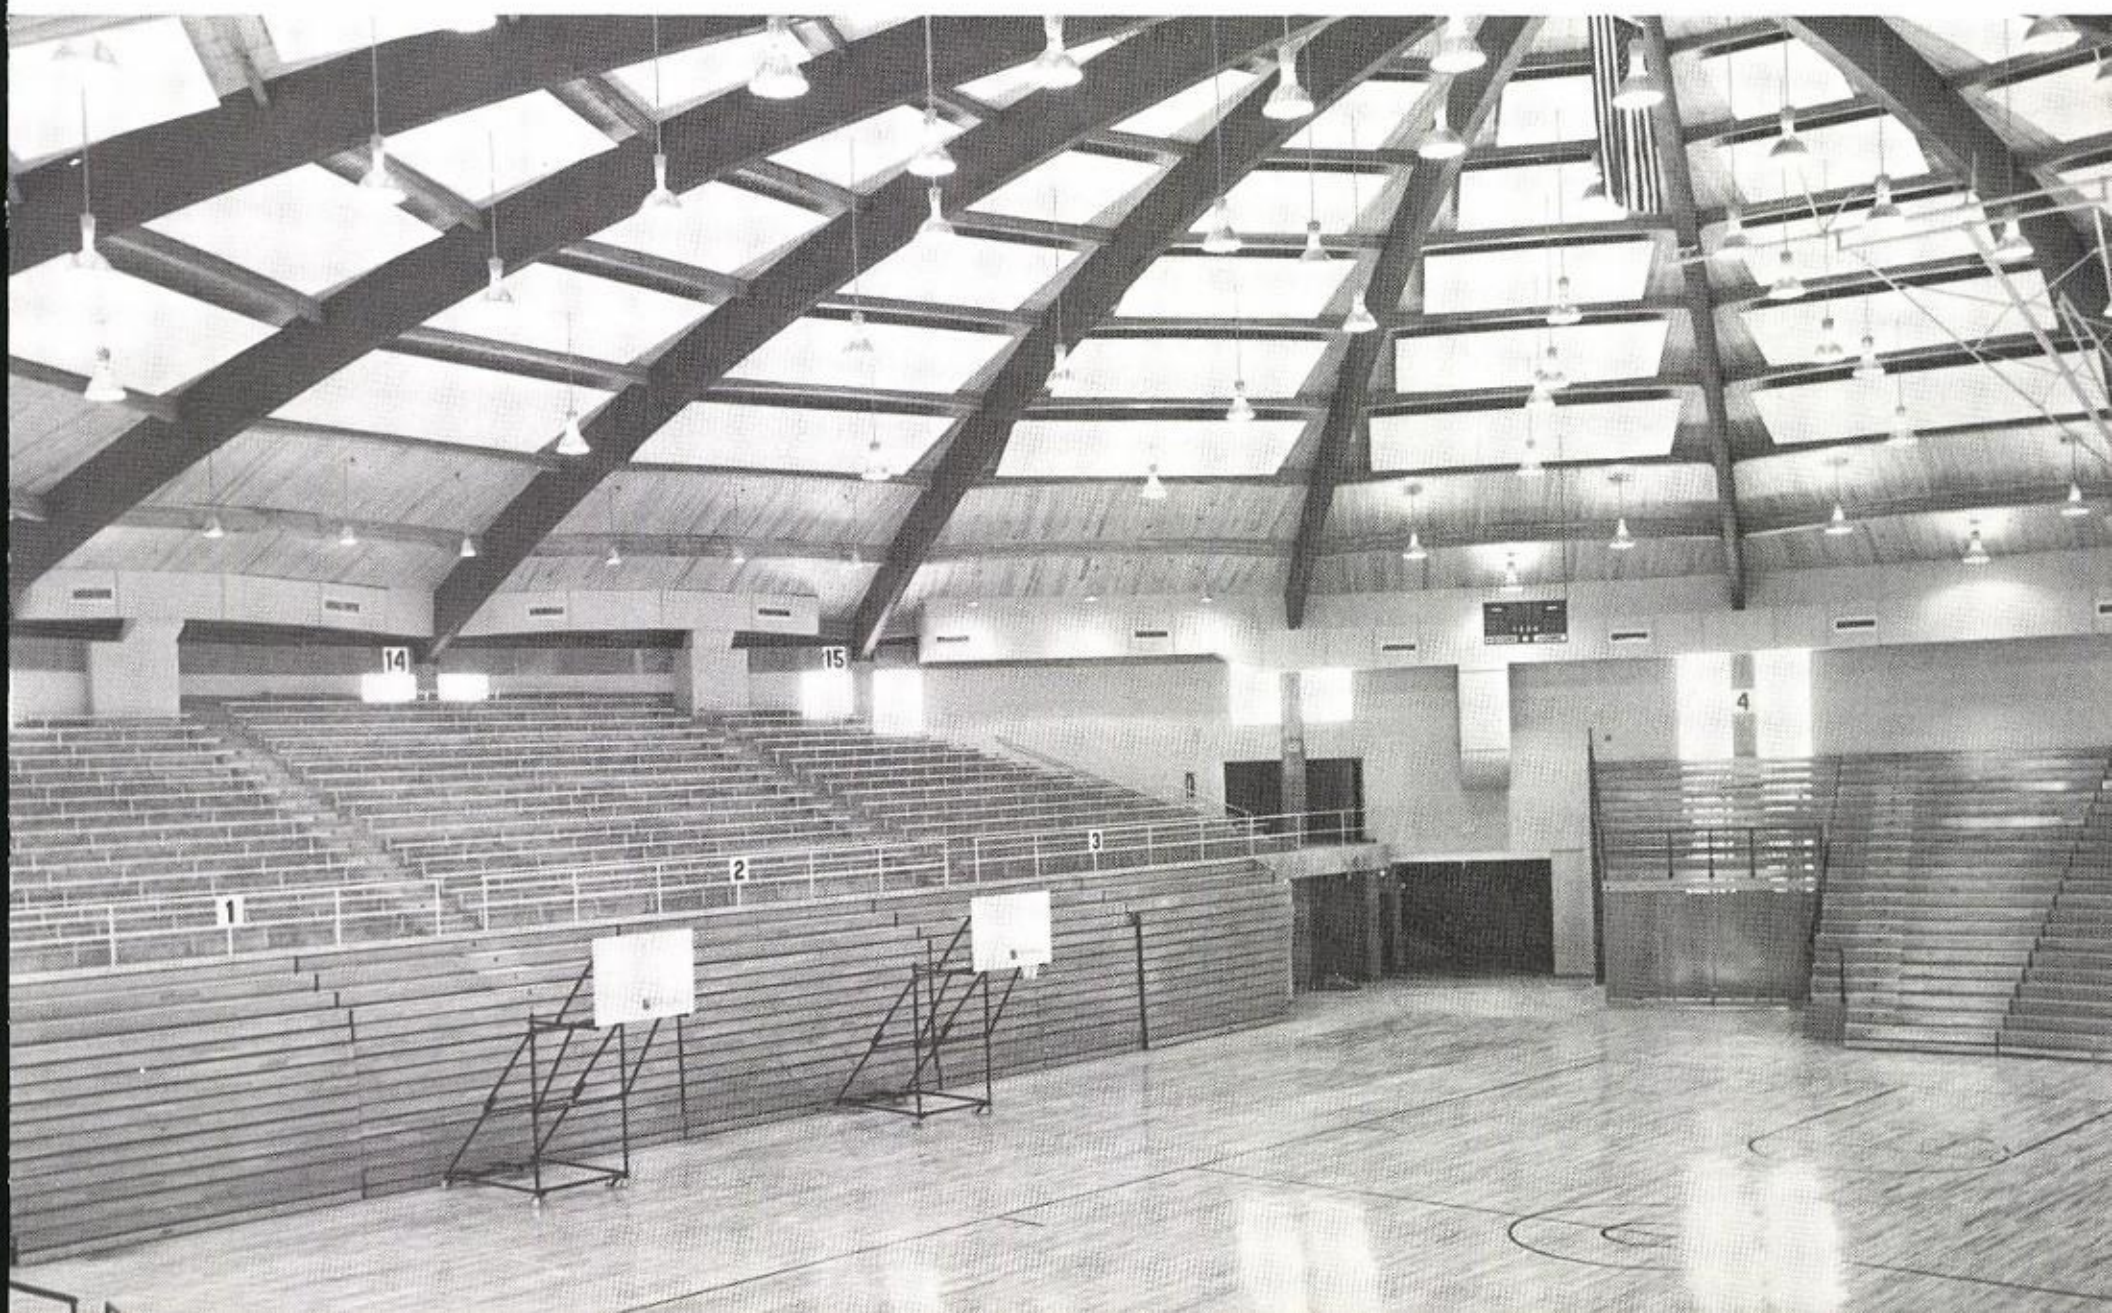
In September, 1961, the school board instructed the architects to submit proposed plans and specifications for the second unit, an extension of the southwest corner of the building. This unit was planned to include ten additional classrooms, with two biology laboratories and a greenhouse. Contracts were awarded early in March and construction began later in the month. With a few items to be completed the new unit was accepted and classes were admitted October 29, 1962. The cost of this unit was $268,437.37.

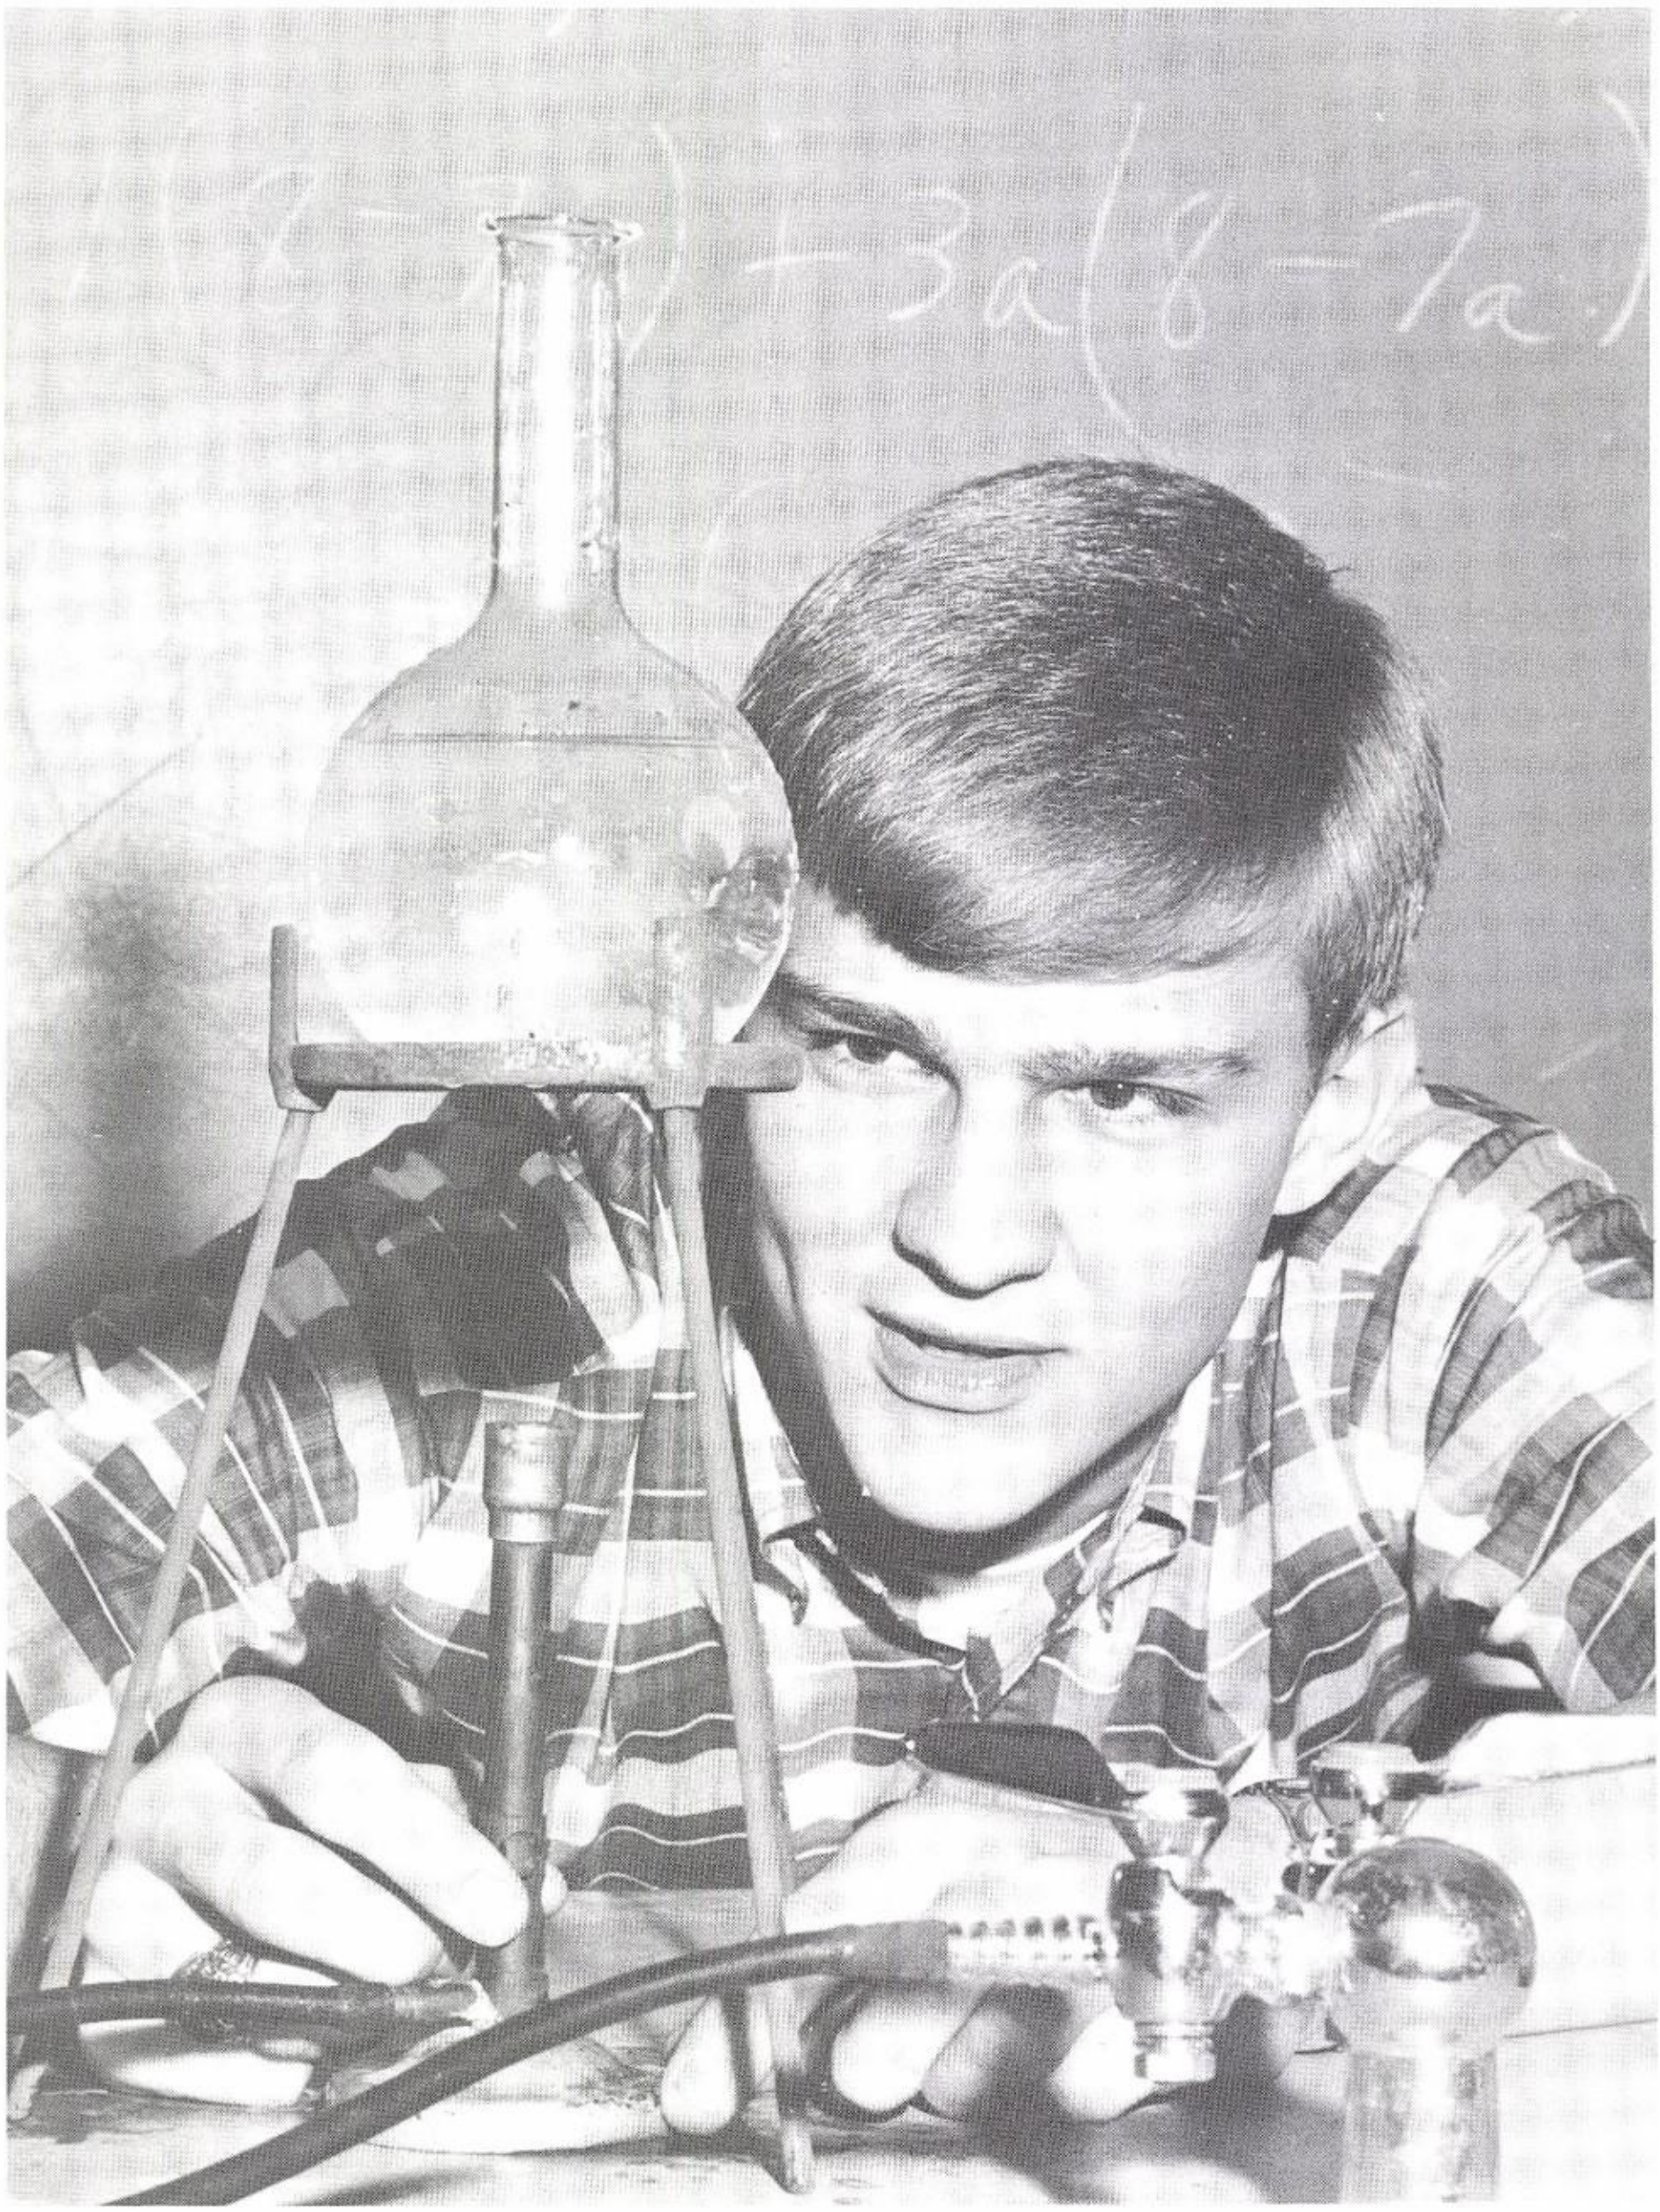
In 1963 a school holding company was formed by local citizens to assist in financing the building, and contracts for the third unit were awarded early in July, 1965. Holding company bonds were sold and construction started in August, 1965.

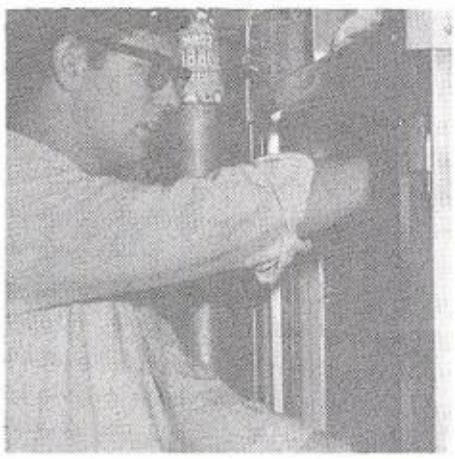
This third section consisted of thirteen classrooms, a larger cafeteria, an enlarged library, additional shop and vocational rooms, and an auditorium seating 1176 persons, a swimming pool, and a circular gymnasium seating 5,818 persons.

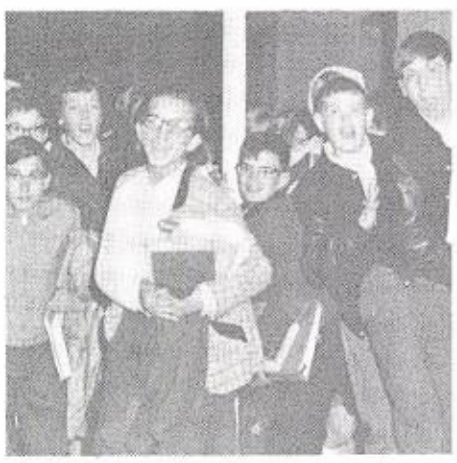
The academic classrooms and cafeteria were completed and occupied at the beginning of school in September, 1966. The auditorium was completed and first used for a preschool teachers conference on August 31, 1967. The swimming pool was opened for pupil use in November, 1967. The circular gymnasium was used for the first time on December 15, 1967. The cost for the third unit was about $3,212,101.00 including all furniture and equipment.

Thus after more than ten years of planning and building, Shelbyville High School has one of the finest structures in the state. In the words of Harold N. Bell, Superintendent of Schools, "When people are committed to devoting full strength and support to the preservation and further improvement of public education for all, visible proof of that devotion comes to the forefront."









Academics

SHS is growing in every way but especially in academics. Reaching into every possible field of interest, the enlarged curriculum re-emphasizes the school's major role in education. This year, new courses in mathematics, vocational arts, physical education, French, and music have been added. In classes students learn to express themselves, to communicate with others, to discover how things happen, and most important of all, to plan for tomorrow. Every course at SHS is a challenge to be accepted or rejected by the student. If the student chooses to accept the challenge, countless opportunities await, and these opportunities can mean unlimited success in the months and days ahead.

learn to communicate with others

"Anyone want to buy a Scribe?" Through the combined efforts of the English and Printing Departments, students were able to display their literary talents in this new school publication. Included in the magazine were haikus, couplets, quatrains, epitaphs, limericks, and short stories. Besides learning the mechanics of writing these articles, students also tackled verb usage and sentence structure.

In speech class students overcame stage fright and gave impromptu speeches and planned debates. Developmental reading students increased their reading speed through the use of special equipment. Seniors in Marion Chenoweth's grammar classes sweated through term papers, while Laurence Phillip's junior literature classes studied the Scarlet Letter. As freshmen were struggling through Great Expectations, sophomores studied sentence structure.

Business majors learn skills for tomorrow

The Business Department offers many practical courses to students who hope to find a place in the business world. Typing, shorthand, and office practice develop secretarial skills for later use, but being able to type a term paper can come in handy any time. In bookkeeping, general business, and commercial arithmetic students gain experience organizing information, adding rows of numbers, and studying our financial system. Business law and salesmanship teach pupils the legal methods and practices involved in the buying and selling of certain articles.

Social studies classes view past and present

Social studies classes this year investigated history from the Neanderthal Man and ancient pictures sketched on the walls of caves to President Johnson and the current political scene. Government classes studied the details of federal, state, and local government, while senior economics classes highlighted their year "investing" money in the stock market. Required courses at SHS begin with world history for sophomores, U.S. history for juniors, and government or economics for seniors. Electives include international relations, Latin American history, psychology, and American problems. It is hoped that these help to give students a strong feeling of their heritage so that they will strive to better history in their own time.

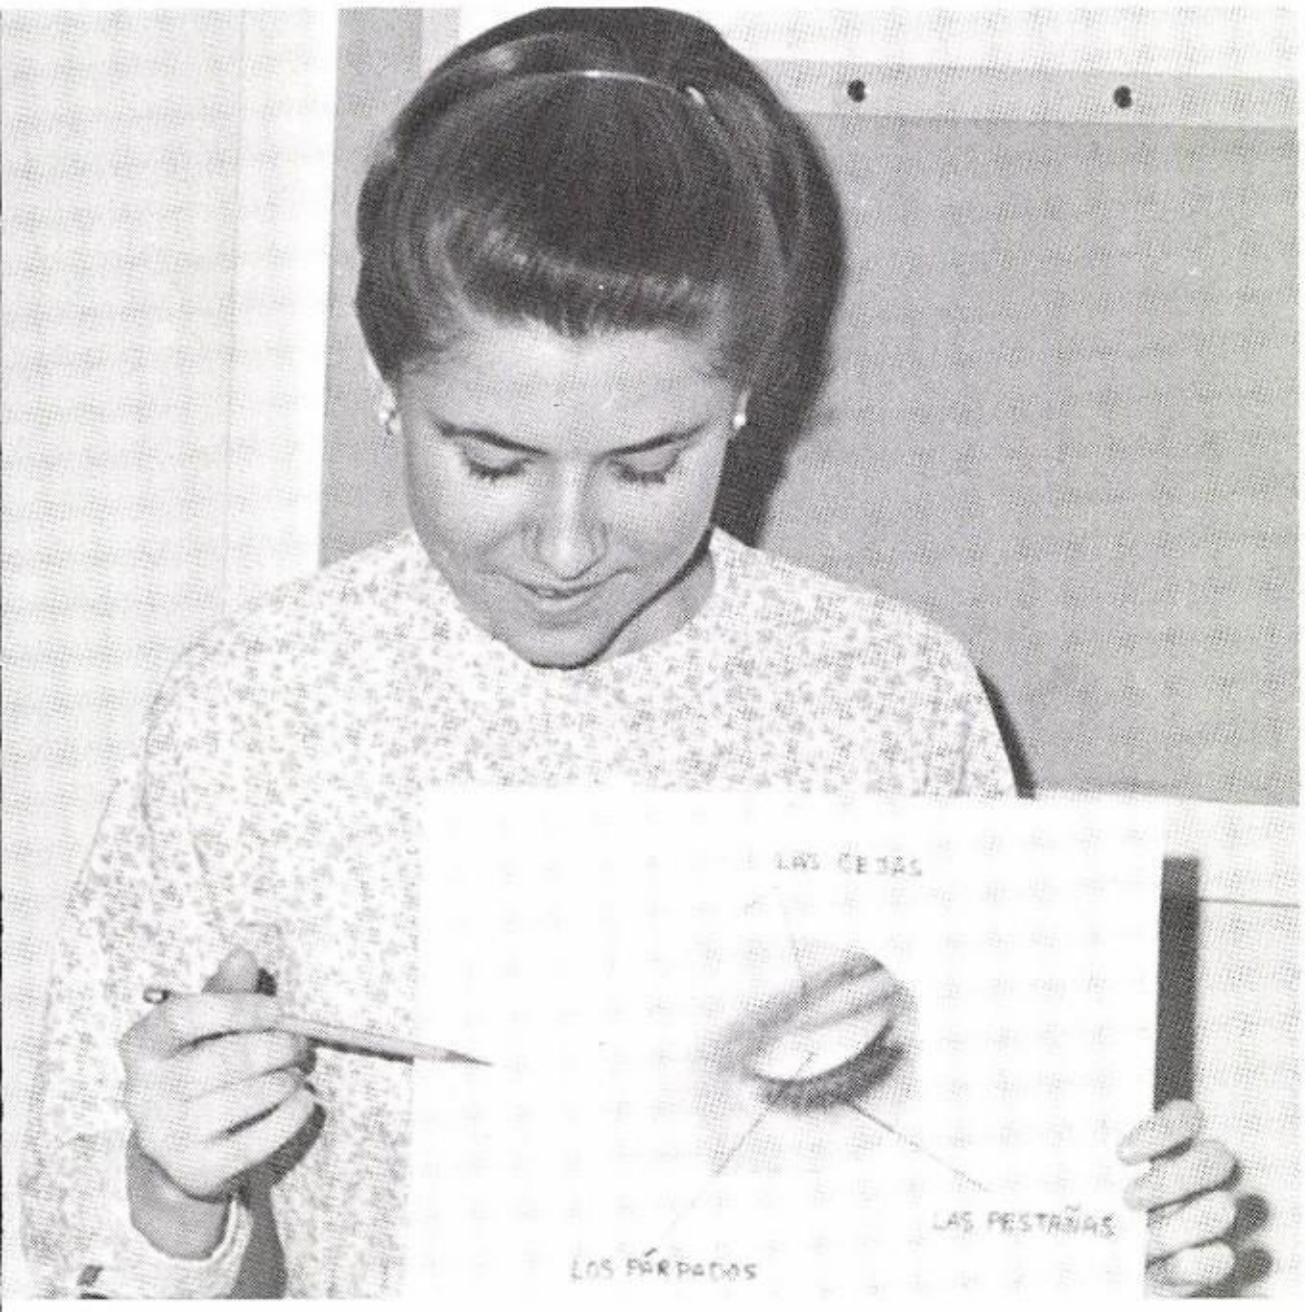
Valēre, adiós, and au revoir to English



In this age of jet travel, no foreign nation is more than a few flying hours away. As a result, foreign words, terms, and phrases are creeping into our everyday conversation. Students at SHS acquire an understanding of these new terms in Latin, Spanish, or French classes. Latin gives students a background in Roman history, while Spanish and French provide instruction in modern languages.

Did you know that "mouse" comes from a Latin word for "muscle"? Besides studying the works of Julius Caesar and Virgil, Latin students also concentrate on the study of English word derivations and origins. By giving reports on Spanish cities and translating newspaper articles into Spanish, students expand their knowledge of the language. In French classes students celebrate traditional French holidays and study the customs of French-speaking peoples. In all of the foreign language classes at SHS, students learn more about the cultures and customs of other nations.

Snakes, molecules, magnets, and square

"Prove that triangle A is congruent to triangle B. What is the mechanical advantage of a single movable pulley?" Math and science have a language all their own. Not only must a student learn the priniciples behind these subjects, but he must also build a whole new vocabulary.

This year SHS offered a beginning course in calculus for the first time. William Murphy's students best remember wrestling with all the integration formulas. Algebra students mastered the trick of solving quadratic equations while the geometry classes discovered two-dimensional figures. In industrial and general math, students learned to use mathematical reasoning in practical applications.

In science classes students investigated the world around them. Biology and life science students studied the life processes of plants and animals, and Stephen Sever's pet boa constrictor provided a prime example. The chemistry classes delved into the molecular make-up of matter and analyzed the composition of acids. Seniors rounded out their science education in physics classes. Light, motion, and energy were major fields of study.

Young drivers learn the rules of the road

In order to help students gain a greater knowledge of cars and how to drive them, SHS Drivers' Education instructors spend many trying hours with their students. Besides learning the basic fundamentals of driving a car, students also study the car's mechanics, good driving "manners", and driving safety. The course is scheduled so that each student drives one hour a week and has four hours of classroom time. In actual driving time, pupils practice parallel parking, driving in traffic, and driving on the interstate.

Ag pupils prepare for farming occupations

The Agriculture Department is responsible for developing farm skills for those students who wish to follow an agricultural related occupation. In introductory agriculture science, students learn the basic methods of farming with emphasis placed on crop and livestock production. Vocational farm power mechanics teaches students how to operate and maintain various types of farm machinery. For the advanced student there is animal science, a new course this year. Much of the class work is completed in projects which students create. The classroom activities are continued after school for those boys farming, as instructor and students visit and help each other.

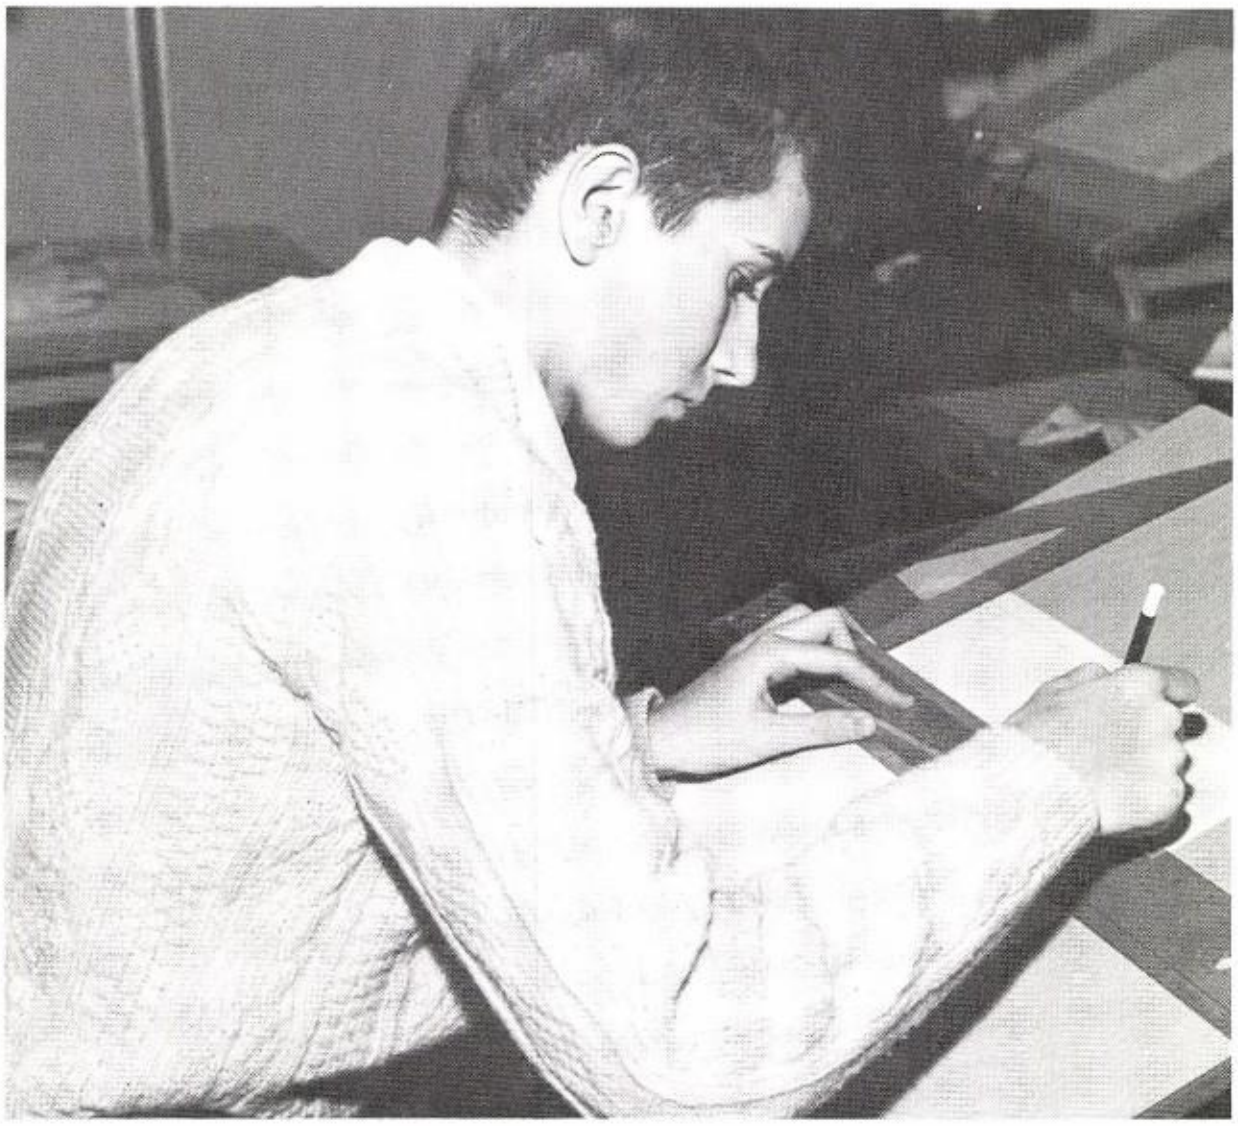
Shop students gain vocational experience



The Industrial Arts Department at SHS has increased in size as growing demands for job training have necessitated adding three new vocational shop courses—welding, auto mechanics, and electronics—to the curriculum. These supplement a well-developed program which includes such courses as drafting, basic-engineering, architecture, woodworking, metals, industrial ceramics and plastics, and graphic arts. In these fields students learn skills ranging from the assembling and disassembling of four-cylinder engines to printing the school's newspaper.

Tantalizing aromas drift down halls from

What is that delicious smell drifting down the hall? Chances are it's the girls in home economics classes experimenting with tempting recipes. Besides cooking, girls enrolled in foods classes study nutrition and family meal planning.

Who doesn't envy the girl who can design her own wardrobe? The students in sewing classes learn to do just that. Instructions in constructing everything from coats to blouses are available to any girl enrolled in daily sewing classes. With all the experience gained from this department, the girls are prepared to maintain efficient homes.

Students display talents in art and music

"Turn right and exit the north door." The fire drill instructions posted in each teacher's room are just a few of the products of art students. Some of their other excellent creations have been exhibited in the display cases. This year several students and teachers are trying to organize an art club at SHS.

If the artistic talents of a student lean toward music, the student can choose from many courses at SHS. Classes are offered in music theory, choir, chorus, and instrumental music. Although show group and dance band are open by audition only, students participating in these organizations may count them either as a full or part time subject.

Phys. ed. classes enjoy new gym, pool

A new addition to the SHS curriculum this year was physical education. With the introduction of the new facilities, a pool and gymnasium, students were offered many hours of fun and learning. Classes enjoyed the uses of new trampolines, parallel bars, and side horses. This year all sophomores and freshmen were required to take this course. Upperclassmen assisted teachers in leading exercises and acting as lifeguards. Students engaged in activities such as basketball, baseball, volleyball, tumbling, modern dance, gymnastics, and swimming and diving.

School Board increases vocational arts

Little does the student body realize how much work has to be done to maintain an efficient school. The school board has the task of hiring teachers, while Mr. Boyd, SHS principal, sees that the complex of Shelby High runs smoothly.

In the classrooms teachers face the problems of educating tomorrow's adults. With the addition of new courses at SHS, the need arose for more teachers in certain areas. New instructors came to fill this need in the science, English, physical education, art, and vocational departments. Each year the faculty at SHS grows to meet the demands of an ever-expanding student population.

Organizations

School officially ends at 3:25, but for many SHS students the day has just begun. For some there is a dress rehearsal for the Mask and Dagger play, Our Hearts Were Young and Gay, or for those in Forum a heated discussion on the Middle East War. During activity period, Sunshine members make final arrangements for the "Sadie Hawkins" dance, and the Singing Stars put the finishing touches on an act for Show Group. While Spanish students finish the piñata for the club's Christmas party, the Pep Band prepares half-time music for a ball game. Shelby High is constantly buzzing with excitement as its halls resound with activity.

Forum members discuss world affairs

Juniors and seniors at SHS aired their opinions on everything from a student smoking lounge to the war in Viet Nam. The membership of Forum consisted of fifty upperclassmen who were elected the previous year from discussion groups.

Under the sponsorship of Vera Murphy and Jim McMichael, Forum went beyond its regular monthly schedule of meetings. A panel of five members presented a radio program sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club. Members discussed "Nationalism vs. Internationalism." Forum and Squib Staff jointly presented the school with a national flag which had flown over the United States Capitol. This flag was placed in the new gymnasium. During December the members enjoyed a swimming party at the school's pool.

Jean Brennan and Denise Karnowsky, who attended the Student Council Institute at I.U. last summer, brought back many ideas for new projects. One idea was to put a suggestion box in the office hoping to hear the suggestions of SHS students.

The Council also sponsored the annual Homecoming festivities, which included a dance held after the football game. At Christmas Student Council held a semi-formal dance with the Dawn Five providing the music. An authentic sleigh was available to any couple wishing to have their picture taken on it.

In November the Executive Committee attendend a state convention at Madison Heights. Here members found out about activities of other councils.

Hi-y stresses "Clean Speech, Clean Living"

First organized in 1924, the Hi-Y now has a present membership of seventy-four. The purpose of the club is to create, maintain, and extend throughout both the school and community, high standards of Christian character. Led by Emerson Bass, John Comstock, Everett Brown, Tom Gould, and Jack Hunter, the Hi-Y was in charge of presenting the Thanksgiving and Easter programs. With the addition of the new gymnasium, the club was able to earn more money from its coat-checks at local basketball games. With this money, two one-hundred dollar scholarships were awarded to outstanding senior boys who were members of the club. The club motto, "Clean Speech, Clean Sportsmanship, Clean Scholarship, Clean Living", is stressed in all Hi-Y activities.

Banquet, initiation enjoyed by Latin Club

Now in its fourth year, the SHS Latin Club provides its members with a chance to study Greek and Roman culture. All students enrolled in second, third, or fourth year Latin are required to be members. Voluntary membership is available to all students who have completed the third year course in Latin.

Activities of the club included a Roman banquet held on the Ides of March. At this event, students dressed themselves in Roman costumes and enjoyed an evening of food and entertainment. The club sent members to the State Convention held at Indiana University. The club was also involved in a program which allowed qualified students to spend several weeks studying in Europe. David Dean participated in this program.

Selling paperback books and collecting dues were the methods used by the club to finance its projects. The club is sponsored by Joan Kelley.

Romance language clubs enjoy putting on

A swing and a miss! And so it went —the sixty-five members of the Spanish Club donned blindfolds, wielded sticks, and took their turn at trying to break the piñata. Later, after prizes were awarded to the first boy and girl to break the two piñatas, a dance contest was held and more prizes awarded. The night was filled with music, food, and games. This Spanish Christmas fiesta was only one of the club's activities during the past year. A guest speaker, Miss Martha Ovaille from Mexico City, and an authentic Spanish meal were two more highlights of the year.

The group met once a month during activity periods, with each class being responsible for at least one meeting. Led by Yolanda Piñeiro and Miriam Copeland, members sold combs and toothbrushes to raise money for scholarships, which were presented at the end of the year to college-bound students who plan to major or minor in Spanish.

Increased interest and new activities helped membership to grow in Cercle Francais. In November the club held a banquet at Rene's French Restaurant, where members enjoyed French cuisine and hospitality. Following the dinner third year French students under the direction of their sponsor, Becky Bodnar, presented a play.

A bake sale helped to finance some of the club's activities. At the bake sale members dressed in authentic French costumes and gave their sales pitch in French. With the money they earned, French Club members held a Christmas party. At this party students sang French Christmas carols, presented skits, and exchanged presents.

The year of educational and entertaining activities was concluded with the annual picnic. French foods, games, and entertainment added to the students' knowledge of French life.

Girls with "hearts of gold" brighten the

Make way for the girl with the "heart of gold." Whether writing letters to a Korean orphan or sending stuffed animals to Riley Hospital, Sunshine girls went all out to aid others. The girls made tray favors for Major Hospital and collected canned goods for the county home. The major project was selling candy, and the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors sold a total of $1600 worth of sweets.

An added feature this year was the "ideal lady" project. Each girl selected one woman in the community whom she considered to be her ideal. Then the girls sent Christmas and birthday cards to this lady and did special services for her. She did not reveal herself to her "ideal lady" until the end of the year.

But all was not hard work. Last fall the Sunshine Society sponsored a "Sadie Hawkins" Dance. The girls asked the boys, paid for the tickets, and took them out to eat afterwards.

Future Nurses and Future Teachers take

The Future Nurses Club has increased not only in size but also in student interest. Helping students explore the world of medicine is the aim of the club. Girls in the club had the opportunity to help older people at the Heritage House, assist as "Candy Stripers" at Major Hospital, and visit Mascatatuk. As "Candy Stripers," the girls carried trays, fed patients, and assisted nurses. Since each student had a different interest, the club's activities expanded to include registered nursing and lab technology.

a look at jobs in medicine and education

Today more teachers are needed than ever before. It is the aim of Future Teachers to stimulate an interest in education among the students at SHS. Speakers on education in the fields of drama, speech, chemistry, and audio-visual aids have provided the programs for the club's monthly meetings.

Miss Wendy Hughes, an exchange teacher from England, related the differences in American and British education systems and listed the advantages of each. Joe Waggoner, who did his student teaching at SHS two years ago, gave the club a view of what teaching will be like in the centuries ahead. The Shelbyville chapter invited the chapters of Southwestern and Triton Central High Schools to participate in its activities.

Vocational clubs prepare for tomorrow

Under the leadership of Dean Eavey and Melvin Davies, the twelve boys in the Radio Club studied amateur radio operation. The club had its own station, with the call letters K9GLV. During their meetings the boys practiced Morse Code, studied radio theory, and learned how to build amateur equipment, such as radios, receivers and transmitters. The members also toured the WLWI radio station in Indianapolis.

The Future Farmers of America, under the leadership of Garnett Winchester, kept busy this year participating in several activities. Much of their time was spent preparing for dairy, livestock, and crop judging contests. To earn money for the club they sold garden seeds, while they took part in such community service projects as distributing safety emblems for highway farm equipment and cleaning up the school parking lot once a week.

Science Society visits a Chicago museum

This year, the Shelbyville High School Science Society, with its sponsors Stephen Sever and William Murphy, bussed to the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago where they spent the day and toured the fantastic displays of the museum.

Once again, the senior members of the club toured both the production and research facilities of Eli Lilly and Company in Indianapolis. This day-long tour proved very interesting and in some cases, inspirational to the seniors who went.

Along with these trips, Science Club viewed educational films and heard qualified speakers on various fields of science.

Assisting students and faculty with difficult

Home Economics Club was organized for the purpose of helping its members practice the skills they learn in Home Economics classes. The members learned the preparation of different foods and studied nutrition. Their sponsor, Jessie Bodem, worked with the officers to provide interesting and effective programs. These girls were also responsible for putting on the Christmas tea for the faculty.

In addition to helping the cooks prepare the daily meals, cafeteria workers also aided in serving and cleaning up the cafeteria after lunch.

With Janet Hutchinson as their sponsor, the twenty-four girls in the Library Club gave assistance to the SHS students who did research. These girls helped students find books, magazines, or other reference materials. With the introduction of our new library system this year, these girls were busier than ever.

Collecting attendance, delivering messages, and answering the telephone were just three of the many duties that office girls performed daily.

performances for school and community

Two-hundred strong, the Robed Choir was divided into two groups this year: the Junior-Senior Choir and the Freshman-Sophomore Choir, each containing one-hundred members. In March these two groups joined forces to put on the musical, "Oklahoma." Earlier in the year, the choir performed the Thanksgiving and Easter convocations in the auditorium. Under the competent direction of Elmore Outcalt, the groups were well prepared for their performances by daily class practices and after-school rehearsals.

"It is now my pleasure to present the Shelbyville High School Show Group!" These words struck a chord in the hearts and a smile on the faces of the forty merry singers and players who made up the Show Group. The group performed for various clubs and organizations throughout the community and occasionally traveled to Indianapolis and other surrounding towns. At the end of last year, the group went to Chicago where they gave benefit shows at the Schwob Rehabilitation Center and the Cook County Memorial Hospital.

"I'm so tired I can't move!" This was a common complaint at band camp last summer. Band members and majorettes used this time to prepare football shows and get into shape by running laps and doing push-ups. All this preparation seemed worthwhile as the band marched before approximately 10,000 people in the Indiana State University Homecoming Parade. The band also marched in two other parades and traveled to Franklin twice, once for a Franklin College half-time show and once for the Shelby-Franklin game.

As the football season ended, the band turned to concert music and prepared such numbers as "La Fiesta Mexicana" for the annual Spring Varieties Concert. A smaller group, the Pep Band, played for basketball games and provided background music for majorette routines.

The dance band had another busy year. Members took two days from school to play for the local grade schools and Junior High. The group also played for the Shelbyville News Christmas Party and a dance at Triton Central High School. Playing "Laura" and "Opus in Chartreuse," members traveled to the district music contest. The dance band also performed at Spring Varieties and the May Festival.

Talented dramatic students present plays

Mask and Dagger is a veteran club at SHS, and it is now under the able leadership of a new sponsor, Gary V. Myers, a new faculty member this year. To be eligible for membership second semester, one must accumulate six points by working on various committees during the first semester.

The club's presentation of the comedy "When Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" was well received by the public when it was presented in the J. W. O. Breck Auditorium in December.

In addition to acting, the members become acquainted with building sets, applying make-up, and collecting props. Members of the club assist the local Community Theater group with backstage work on their productions.

Courier keeps SHS students well informed

Extra! Extra! The call sounds throughout the halls as the Courier staff sells the news. Hard work, long hours, and satisfactory results were all a part of a typical day for SHS journalists. Staff members were those enrolled in journalism classes. Guided by Howard Ribble, these students wrote, edited, and laidout the weekly paper. In addition to the Courier, the staff also put out an April Food edition called the Scurrier.

Each year a journalism student who shows ability is awarded a scholarship by The Shelbyville News. The winner is entitled to attend the High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University. This student then becomes the high school reporter for the local paper. This years recipient was Monique Cooper. She was assisted by David Wilson in her reporting duties.

rack brains to produce and promote SQUIB

The '67 SQUIB received an A+ from the National School Yearbook Association and First Class Honor Ratings from the National Scholastic Press Association and Columbia Scholastic Press Association. This year, for the first time, SQUIB staffers were divided into two groups—an editorial staff and a business staff. Responsible for drawing layouts, and writing copy for the book, the editorial staff struggled many long hours in attempting to meet deadlines and invent new, ingenius ideas in order to help make the '68 SQUIB the best ever.

The business staff helped by selling patron lines. All members joined forces in selling subscriptions for the book and in working as concessionaires at home basketball games. Concessions also made extra money by selling at the county tourney and the sectional. A new addition to the book this year was an eight-page history section. Members spent many hours dwelling on old SQUIBS to locate needed material for showing the changes made at SHS from its beginning to present day.

Sports

Many things are new in the world of sports at SHS. The most outstanding difference is the addition of a new circular gymnasium. Coaches have applied a "win-now" philosophy, and as a result the fortunes of SHS athletic teams have risen sharply. Bursting with talent, this year's football team broke many records in posting an 8-1 season. Finishing their season undefeated, the tennis team placed second in the sectional. The swimming team, coached by Mr. Powell, and the wrestling team, coached by Mr. Kristine, are new sports at SHS. Both coaches have spent the past year primarily in building for the future. Again this year, the Bear's growl was not to be taken lightly. With all the changes in sports, Shelby High can eagerly look forward to an extremely promising future.

record since 1940; places second in SCC

Shelby's varsity exploded its way to an 8-1 season, the best since 1940, and in doing so chalked up 302 points, the most ever recorded by a Bear team in one season. Coach Tom Sells' end zone lovers romped to a 5-0 record with scores as high as 59 points in one game before the bubble burst against Columbus and the Bears suffered their only defeat. Rebounding spiritedly, the Bruins went on to complete their eight wins and wound up tied with Columbus for second place in the South Central Conference.

The SHS reserves football team completed its season with a 4-2-1 record. The two games lost were done so in the final seconds. Bloomington scored with fifteen seconds remaining to win 6-0, and Columbus with only four seconds left to win 19-13. The crew, coached by Jack Hunter and Jack Tindall, performed with spirit and skill throughout the season and gained that valuable experience which builds Bears.

Golf team places fifth in conference,

The Golf Team, coached by Ray Beck, played in both spring and fall. In the spring Shelby won all four of its scheduled dual meets, beating Mooresville, North Vernon, Franklin Central, and Greensburg, while placing second and third in triangular meets at Pendleton and Connersville. In a 21-team sectional at Richmond the Bears finished ninth.

The fall team posted a 2-3 record, winning both its meets at home with Greensburg and Franklin, and losing its three road appearances at Columbus, Rushville, and Connersville. In the Conference meet held at Columbus' Otter Creek course, Shelby finished fifth among the ten teams.

Shelby's tennis team, under new Coach Jim McMichael, had a perfect season this year as it won all six of its scheduled dual meets. The experienced team of five seniors and one junior had little trouble convincing many of its opponents, blanking Martinsville and Mooresville by 7-0 scores. In the sectional held late in September, the netters finished in a third place tie with Seymour. In the South Central Conference Tourney in October they finished in seventh place after being nosed out in both singles and doubles competition by eventual winners or runners-up in the event.

SHS hardballers finish third in conference

The 1967 baseball team found it a busy spring as second-year Coach Carl Hughes' crew played a total of twenty-two games, including a twinight doubleheader against Batesville. The hardballers put together a record of fourteen wins and eight losses, defeating such perennial powers as Indianapolis Washington, and Columbus.

The Bears played three conference games during the regular season, stopping Greensburg, 3-2, and Jeffersonville, 4-1, while being shut out by Bloomington by a 6-0 score, permitting Shelby to finish third in the conference.

Winning their last three games of the season, the Bruins went into Sectional action in fine form, as they blanked Franklin, 3-0, and overpowered Trafalgar, 8-1, before bowing to sectional champ Whiteland in the final game.

Mike Carr was elected team captain by the members of the club, and Doug Ash won the batting crown with a .296 average.

The reserve team played a lighter schedule, posting a 7-5 season.

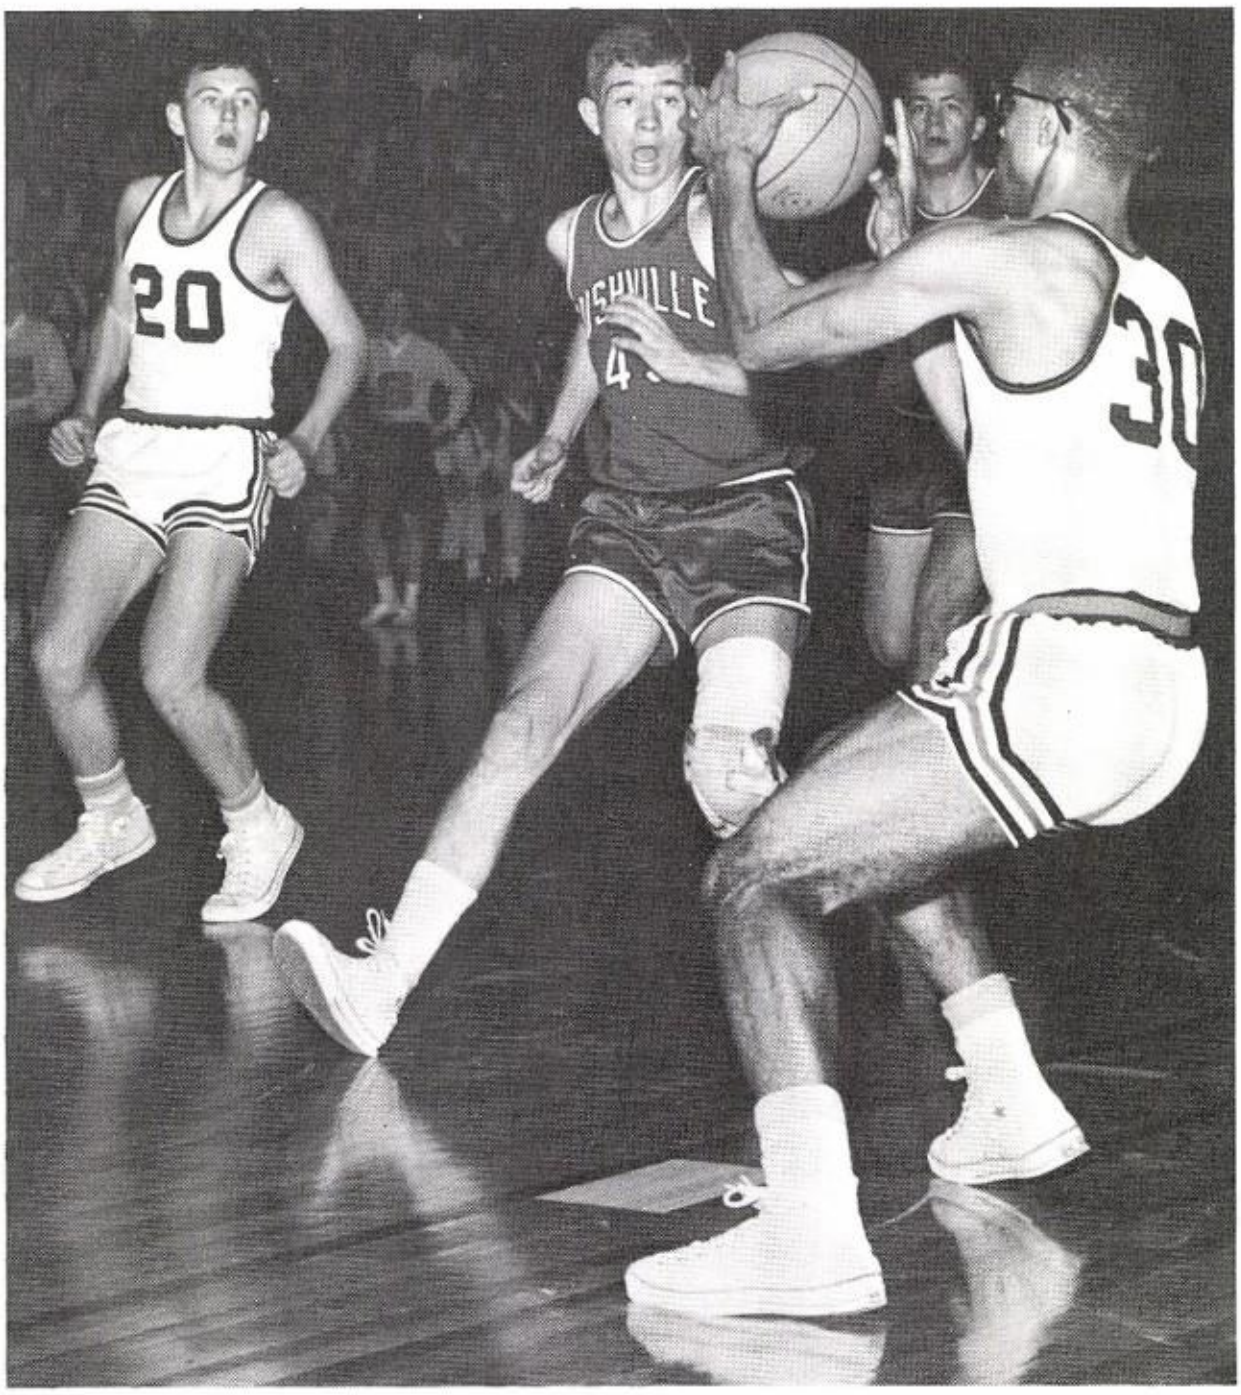
straight 17-3 record, holiday tourney crown



Posting their third consecutive 17-3 regular season record, coach Carl Hughes' basketball team compiled another impressive string of victories this year. Though finishing second in the South Central Conference race with a 7-2 record, the Golden Bears won their third straight Holiday Tourney crown at Connersville.

The Bruins won their first two games in fine style before losing by three points to Columbus, the top-ranked team in the state at that time. From that point the Bears won their next fourteen games in a row, gaining statewide recognition and finally ranking sixth in the state, the highest ever for a Shelby ball club. Possessing a never-die attitude, the team came from behind late in the game to deflate such fine teams as Richmond and Southport in the new gym as well as winning a thrilling overtime contest at Jeffersonville. In the last three games of the season the Bears found it hard going as they lost to fired-up Seymour and Crispus Attucks away from home while defeating Greenwood here, 82-57.

The Golden Cubs won their own Holiday Tourney by defeating Rushville in the afternoon and Greensburg in the finals. At one point in the season, the Cubs won 7 of 8 games, including a four-game winning streak. Three of the young Bears' better performances were against Madison Heights, Rushville, and Madison, as they overpowered these teams by a total of 67 points.

In order to let more boys play basketball and gain experience, Shelbyville fielded two freshman teams this season, a "black" team and a "gold" team.

The "gold" team of Coach Larry Conklin finished with a 7-4 record. Their best games were 60 and 47 point trouncings of Greensburg and Morristown.

Coach John Luck's "black" team also enjoyed a winning season as they played a heavier schedule and posted an 11-7 record. This team represented Shelby in the Freshman Tourney at Greensburg and clinched the title by defeating Connersville in the final game, 47-39.

title, lose to Bulldogs in final game of regional

With the opening of the new gym, tourney days returned to the home front as the Golden Bears hosted their first sectional in fourteen years. The Bears defeated three teams on the way to their second straight sectional crown.

In the first game Shelby toppled Southwestern's Spartans, 85-47, and in the second contest the team stopped county champ Triton Central by a 92-65 count. In the final game the fired-up Bears ran over Waldron, 96-44, tucking away the title by an average winning margin of 39 points. All five starters were named to the All-sectional team the following day.

In the regional at Columbus, the team defeated Silver Creek, 94-70, in the afternoon for Shelby's first win in a Columbus regional. After leading for the first twenty-nine minutes, the Bears were overtaken by Columbus in the last minutes, as the host Bulldogs knocked Shelby out of the tourney, 83-80.

First season gives Polar Bears experience

The Shelbyville Polar Bears completed their first season with a 6-7-1 record. Members of the team swam individually in freestyle, breaststroke, butterfly, backstroke, and the individual medley and had freestyle and medley relay teams. Diving competition was also featured. Eleven members of the team held records.

The inexperienced team started out the season weak, losing their first four meets. Meeting Connersville in the fifth meet, the Polar Bears tied them 47-47. Gaining experience as the season moved along, the team won the last four meets. At the sectional held at Columbus, the Polar Bears came in sixth.

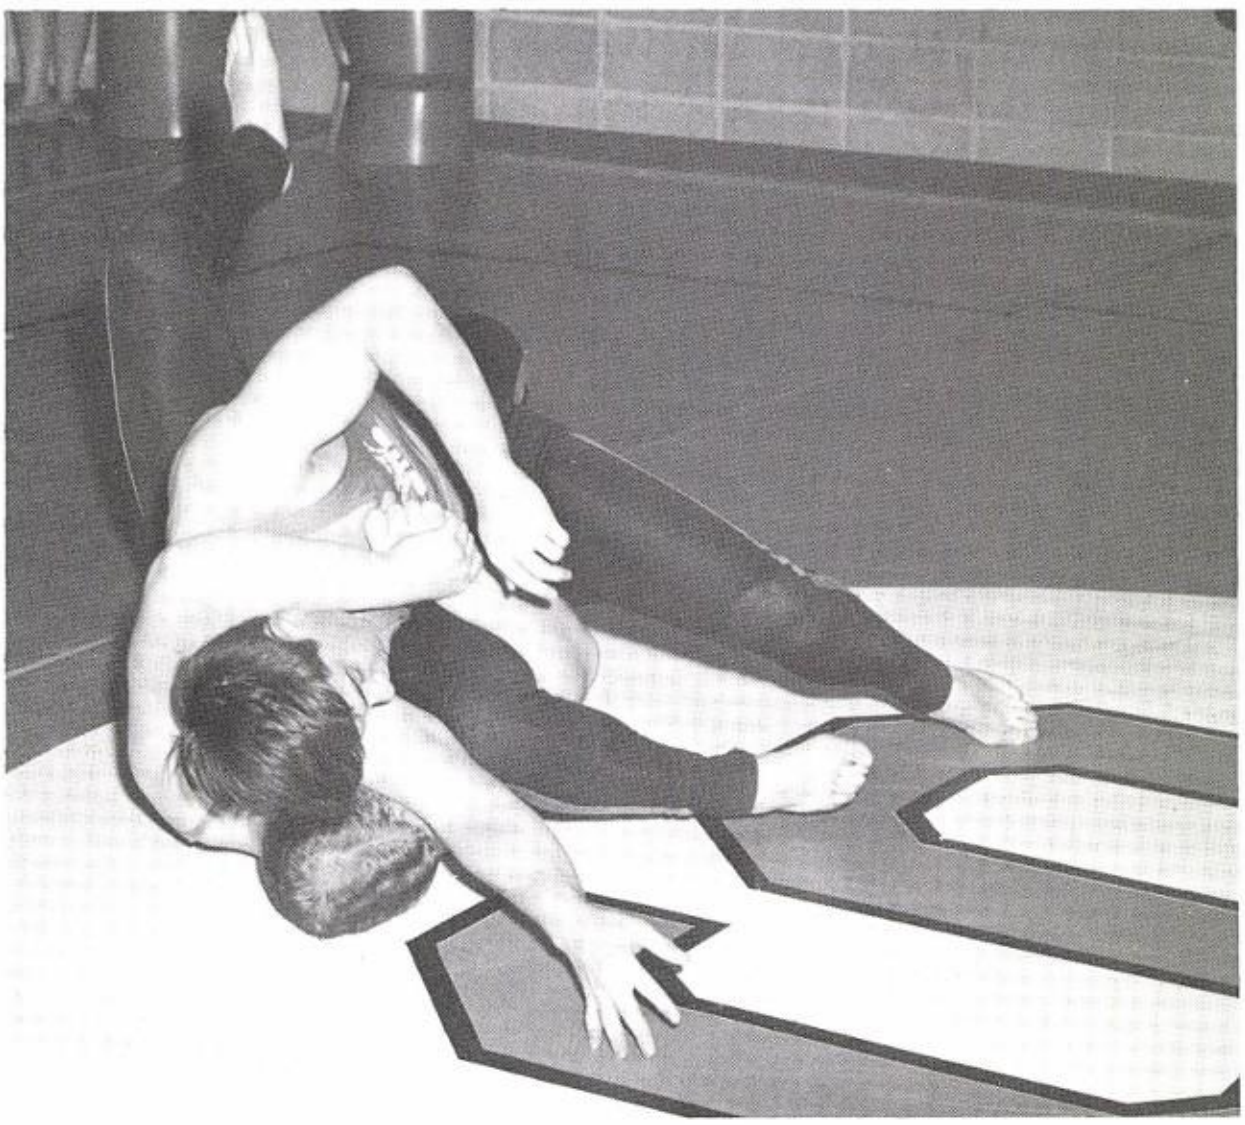
Grapplers gain experience in first year



This year SHS boasted its first wrestling team ever, and new coach Alex Kristine could well have expected only a "building" season since experience is hard to come by. But his grapplers fought their way to a 6-3 winning record, mostly against schools that have had wrestling for several years.

In a four-way meet at Greenfield, our matmen finished second, and in the South Central Conference Tourney held at Columbus the Grizzly's finished fifth. Some of Shelby's better individual performers were Rick Mang in the 120 lb. class, who compiled a 13-2 record and went undefeated in dual meets; Don Nolley, 133 lb. class, 12-4; and Kerry McColley, 127 lb. class, 5-2. Mang and John Cunningham both lost in the Franklin Central sectional to wrestlers who went to win regional championships.

The reserve team posted a 4-3 record and captured second place honors in the Columbus Invitational Tourney.

relays and break four school records

The 1967 track team enjoyed one of its best seasons in many years as Coach Tom Sells' cindermen hustled their way to a 6-3 record and seventh place in the conference. The Bears started strong as they whipped Connersville and Edinburg by wide margins. After losing a close meet at Franklin, they reeled off two more straight victories and finished first among four teams in the Greensburg Relays.

The team lost its second meet to Columbus, before coming back to take second place honors in both the Triton Invitational and the Shelby Relays. Next they lost their third and last meet to Greenwood by two points. The Bears wrapped up their regular season by defeating Seymour and Franklin.

Four new school track records were set last spring in the mile and half-mile relays, the two-mile run, and in the pole vault. Rich Brown was voted most valuable trackman.

Varsity lettermen excel in grades and sports

The purpose of the National Athletic Scholarship Society is to recognize those athletes who excel not only in sports, but also in the classroom. The organization is strictly honorary without officers or regular meetings. New members are announced each spring on awards day.

In upholding its purposes of maintaining high regard for the varsity "S" athletic award and promoting scholarship and sportsmanship, the S-Club accepted as members only those who had won a varsity letter in at least one major or two minor sports, and had maintained an accumulative average of at least 81. The S-Club manages the concessions at the home football games in order to raise money for club projects. Each fall the club hosts the men of the faculty at its annual dinner.

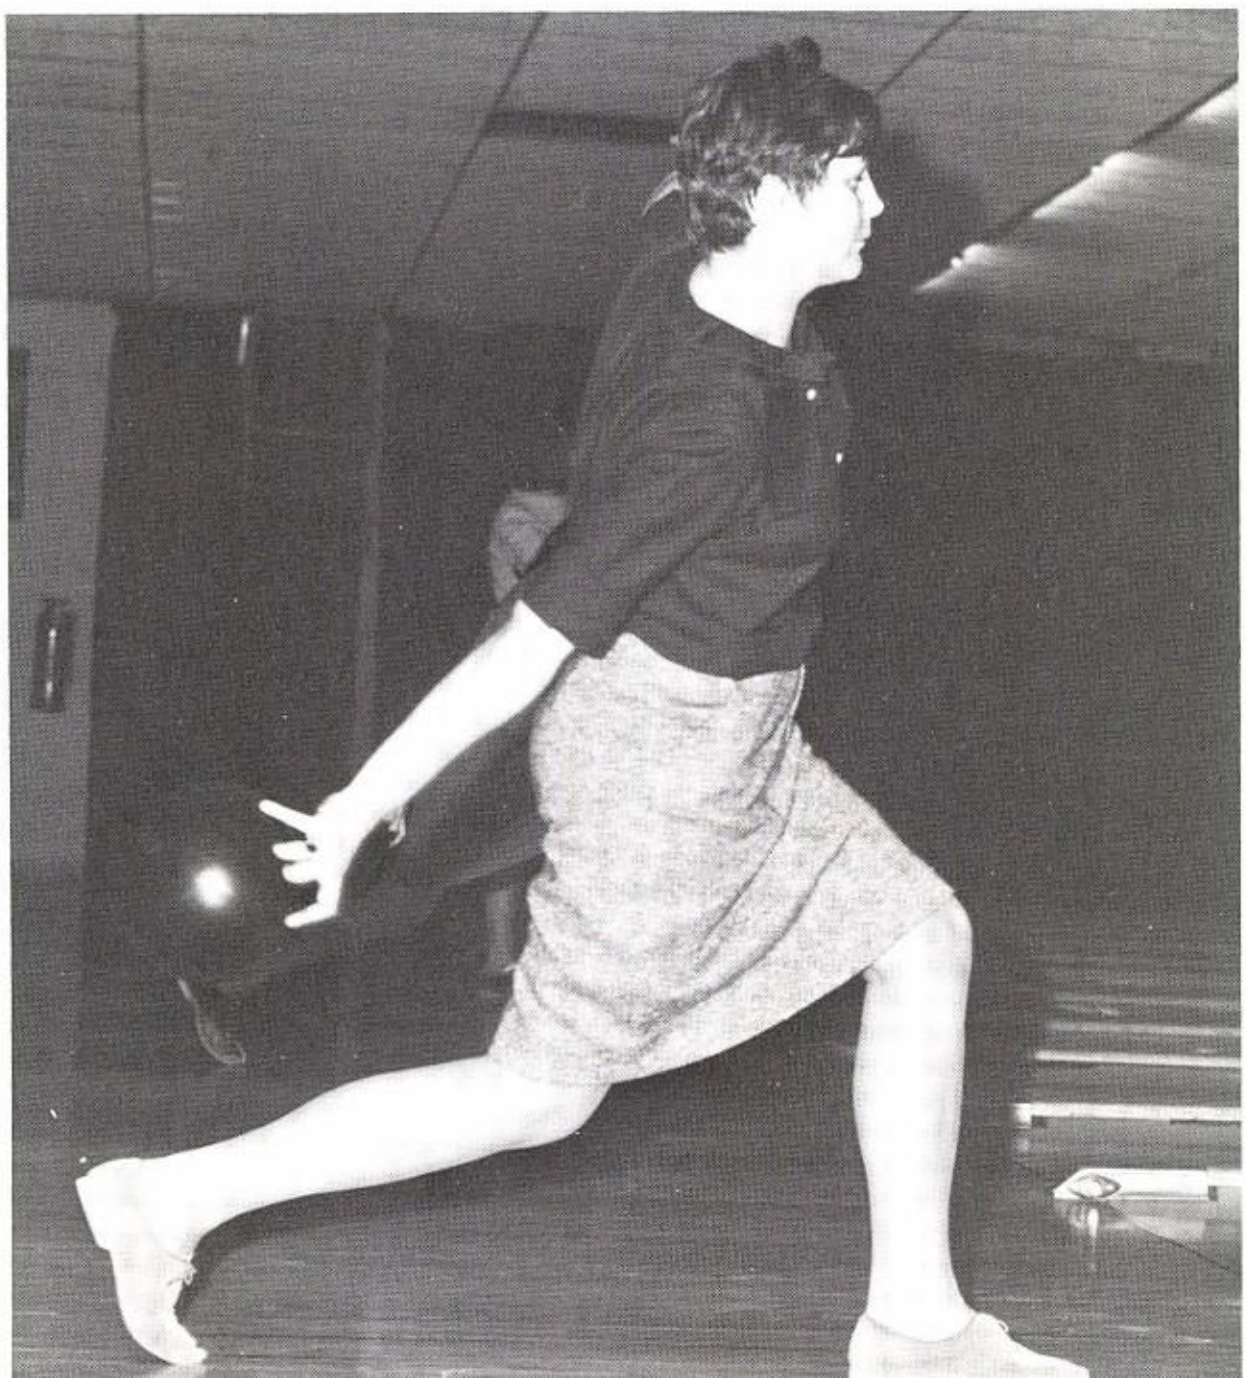
G.A.A. stresses physical fitness and fun



Physical fitness and sportsmanship can apply to girls as well as boys. In the Girls Athletic Association, girls learn to use their athletic talents. This year the G.A.A., under the leadership of Karen Mead and Donna Haughs, participated in bowling, cage ball, volleyball, and basketball. Girls basketball differs from boys basketball in that a team consists of six girls and in that only two of the six play the full length of the floor. The girl may dribble the ball only three times, and then she must pass or shoot for a basket. The SHS basketball team played the Scecina G.A.A. team in December, but lost the contest 23-25.

The G.A.A. had a point system under which a member could win a pin, sweater, or plaque for earning a certain number of points. Points could be accumulated by attending meetings, taking proficiency tests, or doing individual activities.

spirit, pep, loyalty, and enthusiasm at SHS

Visitors to the SHS basketball games may have wondered who the girls in the yellow and white dresses were. But anyone from Shelby High knows that those were the members of the Booster Club. This year, for the first time, girls in this organization had uniforms which were worn at every home game.

Each Thursday after school, the Booster Club, led by the cheerleaders, met to learn new chants, practice old ones, and work with flash cards. Other members spent many hours working on posters which were hung throughout the school.

The Boy's Cheerblock did much to boost school spirit and morale. Approximately one hundred strong, the cheerblock was heard often during the course of a tight game.

Cheerleaders spark Bear fans' enthusiasm

The cheerleaders energetically led the SHS student body in its spirited support of the varsity football and basketball teams. With sponsor Miss Becky Bodnar the cheerleaders spent many hours practicing after school. The ultimate goal of the lively five was to boost school spirit and bolster good sportsmanship.

Having spent a week at cheerleading camp in Michigan last summer, the varsity cheerleaders learned ways to develop new yells and perfect old ones. Every Thursday after school the cheerleaders led the Booster Club in pep sessions. Reserve and freshman cheerleaders sparked the spirit and enthusiasm at their respective games.

What's all the noise at SHS? It's people, the people who make up the explosive world of Shelbyville High School. Band members wearing new uniforms, forum leaders discussing current topics, and P.E. girls walking around with wet hair are all a part of this exciting world.

Each student is different, yet they all have certain memories in common: wading through the parking lot in the rain, checking the length of skirts or hair, attempting to walk all the way through the Student Center on Monday morning, and trying to get on Miller Street after school. These are only a few of the many happenings SHS'ers confront daily. On the following pages are the students who make up the world of Shelby High.

Lots of luck at I.U. Jail need it until you transfer to New Mexico Central Normal!

Largest senior class boasts tallest pres

The world of SHS seniors explodes with the vitality of youth and three years of experience at Shelby High. From the sophomore year when the class moved from Junior High to Senior High until now, the senior class has watched the expansion of SHS. The sounds of drills and power saws became an accepted part of the normal school day. Bringing sack lunches and bouncing over the bumps in the parking lot characterized the minor inconveniences caused by construction.

Senior year brought computerized report cards and schedules. Seniors filled every spare moment with riding around the rootbeer stand, going to dances at the fairgrounds, selling concessions, taking dates to the movies, painting senior cords, and being first to graduate from the new gymnasium.

Junior officers take on challenge of Prom;

"T" minus one year and counting! Juniors feel a bit apprehensive as year number four approaches. Soon the seniors will graduate and the class of '69 will head Shelby High.

During the past year juniors fantically searched for money-making projects with which to finance the Junior-Senior Prom and saw special convocations in person instead of hearing them via the intercom. Juniors supplement school work by taking part for the first time in Forum, Future Teachers, and Future Nurses.

The interests and activities of a junior can vary from vocational arts to algebra, or from dramatics to music.

Right—Junior class officers Chris Williams, President, and Louise Brandenburger, Secretary-Treasurer sift through remnants of last year's Prom, hoping to find an idea for the one they will help plan this year.

Sophomores find studies rough while

After surviving the general confusion of their freshman year, a wiser and more confident class of sophomores takes pride in setting an example for this year's freshmen. This year's sophomores created a fast-moving year that was packed with plans and activities. This was the year to plan the class party, choose class rings, and participate in more SHS organizations. Asking Mr. Beck for help in solving geometry theorems, sitting outside on a cold day taking surveys for drivers' education, and memorizing excerpts from Shakespeare's Julius Caesar in Mr. Kuhn's literature class all played a big part in the sophomores' academic life. With the experience of two years of SHS life, sophomores anticipate the day when they will be upperclassmen.

Greenies find new life at SHS confusing

The feeling a freshman gets as he enters SHS for the first time is apprehension. What lies in the future? What will the next four years be like?

Besides adjusting to new courses and teachers, freshmen also learned to get from the 400 wing to Mr. Sever's biology class in five minutes flat. In physical-education freshmen put the new pool to use, and the sight of girls with wet hair was a common one. SHS offered the first opportunity for freshmen to participate in extra activities. Some took part in sports or G.A.A., while others enjoyed Hi-Y, Sunshine, Mask and Dagger, band, or choir.

First-day jitters soon disappear, but the apprehension remains; and only the next four years will erase it.

Right—Roland Macklin, President; Connie Williams, Secretary; and Mike Underwood, Vice-President realize that being Freshman class officers sometimes takes time away from their studies.

Bursting, bulging, exploding Shelby High

This is your 1968 Squib. We have worked long and hard to put it together for you.

What makes a Squib staffer work during every spare moment and become practically a hermit for six months of his senior year? What makes him answer his friends with a "No, I can't; I have to work on Squib"? Maybe the answer stems from the feeling of accomplishment when the last triplicate is mailed and the satisfaction when the book comes out. Or maybe it is just the feeling of pride for our year, our school, and you, the people in it.

In our haste this year, many thank yous have been forgotten, as we rushed to take pictures, identify individuals, borrow typewriters, and meet deadlines. For this reason, the 1968 Squib staff would like to take this opportunity to thank all those whose classes we interrupted, those who were forced to unlock doors for us at odd hours, those who loaned us typewriters, and those who were stuck labeling pictures with names we did not know.

A special set of thanks goes—to Mr. Ronald Klene, our fearless leader, for his patience, many long hours, and pizzas.

to Mr. Gerald Nelson of Nelson's Studio for his cooperation and excellent pictures.

to Mr. Dick Kennard, Newsfoto Publishing Company representative, for solving our major, but more often minor problems.

to Jenny Thurston, our copy and assistant editor, for her shoulder to lean on and her many devoted hours.

to the editorial and business staffs for their many hours of dedication and determination.

to Mr. Arthur Barnett for the lengthy hours he spent on concessions.

to you, our readers, for creating the EXPLOSIVE WORLD OF SHS.
